Turnout small for high school forum

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Only about 40 people showed up for the public forum held at Antioch Community High School (ACHS) to hear the board of education's crisis plan and to ask questions about the details.

The high school board found it necessary to decide its course of action in the event voters do not support the referendum for the $.28 increase to the education fund in the March 19 election.

'The board is planning for known growth.'

Supt. Dennis Hockney

At a special board meeting held on Jan. 15 in the gymnasium before the entire high school student body, the finance committee made its presentation and voted on the cuts it would make. The purpose of the proposal is to cut nearly $5 million ($2 million in 2004-05 and $2.9 million in 2005-06) from the district's budget by the 2005-06 school year should the proposed referendum be denied for a third time.

The crisis plan would eliminate nearly all athletics, band, chorus, drama, extra curricular activities and field trips as well as making cutbacks in the money spent on maintenance, equipment and books.

"The board is planning for known growth," said Supt. Dennis Hockney. "We want to maintain current levels of educational opportunities here and at the second high school."

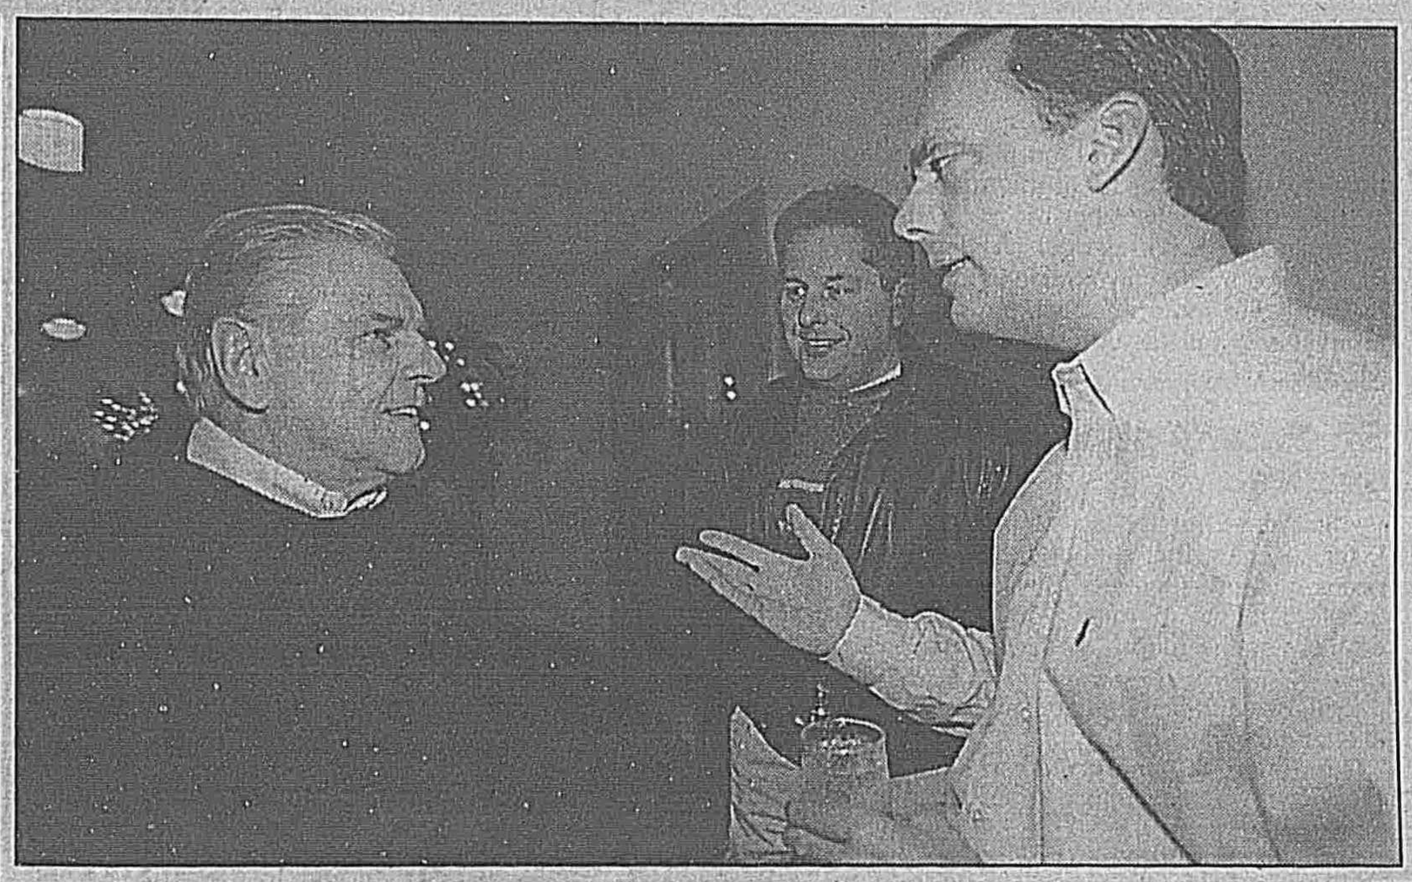

Hockney stressed that the money is not for the building, currently under construction, and that the money is not solely for the second high school. He said, "The $.28 is not for the second school; it's for the school district. If reductions take place, they take place in two high schools."

Business manager Bill Ahlers answered questions about the district's current financial status and said, "Right now we have an operating reserve of about $4.5 million."

The high school district (ACHS Dist. 117) hasn't sought an educational fund increase since 1972, and has, in essence lost many over the last ten years due to the tax cap. The tax rate has decreased from $2.030 in 1990 to $1.815 in 2001.

"It's a complicated formula," said Ahlers. "Though a homeowner may be paying the same dollar amount, the rate has actually gone done because the valuation of their home has gone up."

Board secretary Larry Peterson said, "We've been lucky because inflation has been low. If this was like the '70s we'd have problems."

Denied

Third time not a charm for Neumann Homes

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Sometimes persistence doesn't pay off. The board of directors of the Village of Antioch denied the third Neumann Homes petition in swift action at its regular board meeting.

At least for now, there will be no development called "Clublands" with 1,240 homes to be built on 634 acres located on Rte. 173 just east of the Eagle Ridge subdivision.

Neither Neumann Homes representatives nor the public were allowed to make comments prior to the board's unanimous vote. "We've heard all the arguments," said Mayor Taso Maravelas.

Trustee Scott Pierce made the motion to deny the petition that was quickly seconded by trustee Bob Caulfield. When the board voted unanimously to deny the petition, a crowd of about 400 gave a standing ovation.

The trustees offered no reasons for their votes, but directed village attorney Donald Anderson to prepare a "finding of fact."

Prior to the vote, Pierce and trustee Barbara Porch were permitted to ask questions of village staff.

Pierce asked Anderson if sewer and water easements were in place. Anderson responded, "We do not have the easements in place to bring sewer and water to the property. We have talked with Deercrest, Lake County and the Forest Preserves, but the easements are not there."

Porch asked village engineer Jim Keim if the proposed development is in conformance with the village's new tree ordinance. Keim said, "I don't believe the developer tried to avoid the wooded areas...It's not in conformance with our existing or previous tree ordinance."

Cory Singer, director of community and public relations for Neumann Homes said, "I think their vote is unclear. Their questions didn't correspond with reasons to deny."

While Singer said the developer would "continue to be a good neighbor," he also said the lawsuit against the village was still in place.

He added, "We made up for everything of the last two proposals that were denied. We have complied with every ordinance they have passed and every request they have made."

Though the mayor wasn't called to vote, he said, "I believe Neumann Homes will be too much of strain on our schools, roads, fire department and rescue squad. I deny this also."

Utilities tax to increase

Village seeks to repay seniors

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Though nothing is as yet carved in stone, a five-percent tax increase on utilities is one step closer to becoming a reality for residents and businesses in Antioch.

The village board heard the first reading of three ordinances that would increase taxes by five percent for telephone, electricity and natural gas at its regular meeting. The tax increase was recommended in November by trustee and finance chair Bob Caulfield to repay a trust fund worth well over $1 million that was bequeathed to Antioch seniors by Dolly Spiering.

Trustees requested that the wording "but not limited to repaying the Dolly Spiering Fund" be changed so its use could only be used to repay the diverted funds and that the tax be repealed once the fund was satisfied for all three ordinances.

In a latter conversation, trustee Barbara Porch said, "It's important that this tax is automatically repealed once the loan is repaid so we don't have to worry about taking it off the books."

The board got into a discussion about what interest rate it should repay on the loan. Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) was permitted to make a recommendation to the board.

He later said, "They didn't know what to do with the concept of interest so I recommended they go to one of the local banks and borrow the $1 million and negotiate the rate with the bank. That way the seniors could be immediately be paid back, and there would be no question about what that interest rate should be."

Resident Pauline Hart questioned the board's decision to use a tax-rate increase to repay the money. She said, "This woman didn't leave the money to make it more difficult for us. We didn't mismanage the funds. We shouldn't have to repay this.

Caulfield responded, "There is a concept out there that we're penalizing the seniors. Every resident of Antioch benefited from how this fund was used. This money didn't just disappear. It was used to run the entire Village of Antioch."

Rezoning brings Country Pontiac under B-3

The site of the newly opened Country Pontiac-Buick has been rezoned to bring it back under B-3 (business) zoning.

"It's a matter of cleaning up the zoning math and cleaning up the ordinance," said Bob Silhan, director of planning, zoning and building for the Village of Antioch, at the regular meeting of the village board.

When the property was purchased to house the dealership, the owners thought the B-3 zoning would accommodate the business. The reality was that car dealerships fall under M-1 (industrial) under Antioch ordinance.

The village granted a zoning change to allow the dealership to move from its previous location on Main St., but was uncomfortable creating a spot-zoning situation. Based on Silhan's research of other communities, the board stipulated that Country Pontiac-Buick would revert back to B-3 zoning if and when text changes were made to the ordinance that would allow car dealerships as a special use under that category.

Skating clinics

Lake Villa Township will be offering free beginners' skating clinics for elementary school children on Feb. 2 and 9, at the Caboose Park skating rink, located on the football field at the park at Grand Avenue and Fairfield Road.

Each clinic will last one hour. There will be two clinics each of the two Saturdays. The first clinic, from 10-11 a.m., will be geared for 5-7 year-olds, and the second clinic, from 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., will be for 8-10 year olds. Children are urged to arrive a few minutes early to get organized.

Space will be limited to only 10 skaters in each of the four clinics, in order to provide quality instruction.

To register, call 847-356-2116.

Lake Villa Township baseball

Walk-in registration for the 2002 season will be held at the Lake Villa Township Offices, located at Route 132 & Fairfield Roads on Thursday, Jan. 24 from 6-9 p.m. and Saturday, Jan. 26 from 9 a.m.-noon. Registration forms are available in Adobe and PDF formats on the team web site at www.eteamz.com/lakevillabaseball. Forms can also be obtained by calling 847-508-0687.

Kindergarten soccer registration

During the month of January, the Lindenhurst Park District is holding a special registration for current kindergarten pupils who want to participate in the Spring 2002 soccer season. Registration will take place at the park district office. A copy of each child's birth certificate is required at registration. The fee will be $40. No meals after Jan. 31

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"Meals on Wheels will only operate out of the Antioch Senior Center until Jan. 31," said trustee Scott Pierce, chair of the Antioch senior services committee.

Pierce said according to village administrator Mike Haley, both Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) and Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) were very interested in the situation and working on the matter with Catholic Charities.

In a later conversation Osmond said, "Sen. Geo-Karis met with Catholic Charities last Friday, but I was unable to attend. She told me it would consider staying at the Senior Center, but there was some concern that a Catholic Charities employee would have to handle the program because of federal funding and Medicare."

Though there is no guarantee something can be worked out between Catholic Charities and the Senior Center, Osmond said he believed a reasonable decision would be made.

"Neither I nor Sen. Geo Karis would let homebound seniors go without meals," he said.

In terms of alternate locations, Osmond said the use of the new township building would be perfect when it opens in May. "Meals on Wheels will already be operating out of the new township building to service Lake Villa, and I'm sure Antioch could be served from there, too."

He added that the goal of the new township building was not to shut down the Antioch Senior Center, but to add more possibilities for area seniors.

As to the rumor that Catholic Charities could operate its Meals on Wheels program out of St. Peter Church, Deacon Scott Keenan said, "It's just that: a rumor. We operate AA, Ala-non and Ala-teen almost every day of the week here."

He added, "We have the food pantry open on Tuesday because that is the one free day. These groups are supposed to be anonymous. It would be inappropriate to have people coming in and setting up meals while these groups are meeting."

Pilot, student OK after crash landing in field near Rte. 45

An Evanston pilot and his student walked away unscathed after a crash landing in a field owned by Temple Smith, just east of Rte. 45 and south of Millburn, near Country Walk.

On Jan. 19, at 10:19 a.m. flight instructor Christopher D. Pedersen, 25, of Evanston, landed the Cessna 172P after he noticed smoke coming from the engine compartment.

He took the controls from his student, Patricia Smiertka, 55, of Antioch, turned off the engine and set the plane down. Neither the instructor nor his student was injured. The plane was minimally damaged, and police report there were no injuries or damage caused on the ground.

Pedersen has approximately 1,300 hours of flight time logged.

Smiertka has logged about 80 hours.

The plane, owned by the Stick and Rudder Club of Waukegan, was flown out of Waukegan Regional Airport.

Lake County Sheriff's Deputies notified Temple Security, the Gurnee Fire Department and the FAA. The FAA quickly authorized release of the scene.

As of Jan. 22, the plane was still on the field, awaiting removal.

Fire destroys cars, motorcycles

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"An open flame too close to common combustibles caused the fire," said Antioch Fire Dept. information officer Chris Lienhardt. "There was about $35,000 worth of loss."

The fire occurred shortly after noon on Jan. 14 in unincorporated Antioch.

Though there was no human loss or injury, two antique cars and two motorcycles were lost in a blaze that "fully involved" the garage that housed them.

"The fire was quickly brought under control," said Lienhardt. "The garage was a total loss."

Lienhardt said the fire started as the owner worked on one of the two motorcycles. He said, "He went to start the motorcycle and the gas tank tipped over and a spark started the gasoline on fire."

Two engines, a tanker and a squad truck were sent to the site by both of the Antioch fire stations. Lake Villa sent a truck to Antioch to cover potential incoming calls.

"We were able to get the fire out by 2:07 p.m.," said Lienhardt. "There were no problems bringing the fire under control."

Make way for Super Wal-Mart

Value store may help to 'cut back' Antioch's financial woes

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Tim Barrett, a partner of Great Lakes Principals, is hoping the board of directors of the Village of Antioch as well as village staff and the combined planning and zoning board will be receptive to a proposal to bring a Super Wal-Mart to Antioch.

Barrett, supported by the projects civil engineer Mike Lach and project architect Tim Stewart, made an informational presentation to the board prior to its regular meeting that outlined the project's goals and the potential financial gain to the village.

"This could help the schools, help the village, help everything around us," said Mayor Taso Maravelas in a later interview. "The development doesn't require a lot of village services, but we can gain from the taxes it would bring."

The project, if approved, would sit on 67 acres that is currently made up of seven smaller parcels at the intersection of Rte. 173 and Deep Lake Rd.

There are two phases to the project, with the first phase to include the Wal-Mart of about 209,000 square feet (of that 60,000 square feet proposed for groceries) on the 38 eastern acres with an expected completion date in 2003. The second phase is slated for "future development" on the western portion.

Selden Fox, Ltd. and Northern Illinois University prepared a study of the potential financial impact to the Village of Antioch.

It found that in the first full year of completion the village could expect to receive $570,000 of new sales tax revenue. Upon full assessment of the first phase of improvements, the report found that Antioch would receive $122,000 in new property tax annually on property currently bringing about $25,000 in annual property taxes.

Additionally, Antioch Community Consolidated Dist. 34 and Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 would receive $325,000 and $255,000 respectively each year.

Revenue projections grow with each year and the completion of the second phase. Of the first-year figures Barrett said, "This is what is in my basket (based on who is under contract) at this time."

To ease the minds of those with environmental concerns, Lach explained the elaborate design of the retention pond that will cover about six acres of land. The retention pond will be built prior to the construction of the buildings.

"It is our intention to honor the natural drainage direction," he said. "The engineering of the wet basin has a thin peninsula that the water must go all way around the peninsula. We will filter the water as best possible before releasing it to the system."

Stewart described, at length, a 40-foot wide berm proposed along the entire Deep Lake Road boundary to shield and protect the Red Wing Slough to the east.

"This will serve as a natural barrier to the slough, and will protect it from trash," he said. "It will be both an environmental and visual buffer."

The berm will include ground cover, grasses, shrubs, shade trees and some type of pine. Austrian Pines were originally proposed, but when Barrett was told the tree ordinance doesn't allow for them, he said he would be happy to use something else.

The board asked many questions of group, though answers weren't provided due to the time constraints of the regular meeting to follow.

The one exception to that was that Barrett answered trustee Dorothy Larson's question that Wal-Mart would not consider any other Antioch location. "There is no other location that has interest for Great Lakes or Wal-Mart," he said.

Let paint, pastel add color to life

OUR TOWN

Julie Murphy

It's not to late to add a little color to your life this winter. The Antioch Fine Arts Foundation has some remaining openings for its winter art classes.

Suzanne Hetzel, who teaches painting and is taking registration for the classes said, "We still have openings in pastels, stained glass, painting, basket weaving and airbrush.

The times, size and location vary by class and information can be obtained by calling the studio and leaving a message.

"These really are community classes," said Hetzel. "The schools and one of the banks has been great about letting use rooms because we don't have space to accommodate them."

Class prices vary from $35 to $65.

The stained glass class is a six-hour workshop that includes materials for $35.

"The painting class is a little different, because it's ongoing. The cost is $65 for 8 weeks which works out to $8.50 per class," said Hetzel.

The pastel, airbrush and basket weaving classes are set up in workshop format. "This format is ideal for beginners because it gives a good taste of what it's like," said Hetzel.

To register or find out more information, call the foundation at 847-838-2274.

The seventh grade girls' basketball team from the Antioch Upper Grade School (AUGS) had a colorful season taking conference championship with a 12-2 record.

Congratulations to team members Cali Behrendt, Chelsea Bird, Alexi Florian, Ashley Hartman, Amanda Hoban, Ingrid Johnson, Colleen Krakora, Cori Landeene, Jen Miranda, Jessi Osbin, Brenna Padgett, Trish Redman and Kyle Sisler.

Congratulations are also due to the winners of the AUGS geography bee.

First-place winner Loren Klick will be taking a qualifying test to see if he gets to make the trip to Springfield. Good luck.

Alex Roberson took second place and Hans Johansen third place. The fourth-place winner was Brendan Powers.

There was a tie for the fifth-place position between James Spannraft and Scott Newman.

SCHOOL DIGEST

Catholic schools week celebrated, registration begins

St. Peter School in Antioch will host an open house on Sunday, Jan. 27 to begin the Catholic Schools Week celebration. All are invited to tour the school and meet with teachers between 8 a.m.-1 p.m.

Registration for the 2002-03 school year will begin at this open house.

St. Peter School is rooted in Catholic values and offers a strong academic program for elementary (K-8) students.

"We are proud of what we offer for the whole child academically, emotionally, physically and most importantly spiritually," said Chris Mors, interim principal.

Spelling bee follows 'buddy up'

The annual Blue and White Panther Pride Spelling Bee will be held on Jan. 29 at 12:30 p.m. in the St. Peter School gymnasium for third through eighth-graders.

The spelling bee follows Buddy Up Day on Jan. 28, a favorite among students, where upper grade students are paired with lower grade students to work on special projects in the classroom.

For more information, or to visit a particular grade level, call St. Peter School at 395-0037.

Band visits University of Wisconsin

On Jan. 28, the Antioch Upper Grade School (AUGS) senior band will visit the University of Wisconsin Campus.

AUGS teacher Earl Bush will take the band to participate in a free clinic conducted by Michael Leckrone.

For more information, contact Bush at 847-838-8320.

'Curricular Share Fair' Feb. 1

Presenters from throughout Antioch Community Consolidated Dist. 34 (elementary) will conduct a mini conference on Feb. 1 at the Antioch Upper Grade School on Institute Day.

Though there will be a couple of outside presenters in the area mathematics and language arts, most of the sessions will be presented by district teachers, school service personnel and administrators.

Book fairs, everywhere

Millburn School will hold a book fair preview on Thursday and Friday, Jan. 24 and 25, in Room 304. The book fair is officially open the week of Jan. 28-Feb. 1. Parents may come to the book fair on Saturday, Jan. 25 and Wednesday, Jan. 30, from 6-8 p.m.

Lake Villa District 41 schools hold their book fairs Feb. 2-5.

Pleviak opens their fair with a "Title Reading Night" on Feb. 5 from 6:30-7:30 p.m.

Thompson kicks off with a Literary Evening of readings, Feb. 2, from 6-8:30 p.m. Thompson's "students only" day will be Feb. 6, from 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

Millburn concert

Millburn's beginning band and fourth and fifth-grade choral concert will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 30, at 7 p.m. in the East Gym.

YMCA classes at Pleviak

Hastings Lake YMCA will be offering special after-school classes such as Exploring Science, Messy Art, Travel Club Smackin' Good Stories and Cathy's Creative Kids (Drama) Club. Most classes run for five weeks beginning the week of Feb. 11. They will be held from 3-4 p.m. at Pleviak. A late bus will be available for students enrolled ion the programs. The cost is $40 per five-week session. Registration forms will be accepted on a first come-first served basis at Hastings Lake YMCA, 21155 W. Gelden Rd., Lake Villa 60046. For information, call Melissa at 847-356-4000.

'Perry Medic' visits Pleviak

The "Save a Life" program returns to Pleviak Elementary School on Feb. 11, teaching basic emergency techniques to students in grades 3-5. Instructor Scott Vaughn (a.k.a. "Perry Medic") will teach children about how to function in an emergency situation, including such specifics as scene safety, contacting EMS, opening an airway and the Heimlich maneuver. More sophisticated rescue techniques are taught to older students, and simpler ones are taught to younger students. The program is administered through the Save A Life Foundation, based in Schiller Park.

Dressing up at Hooper

Hooper will be holding the following special student participation days: Jan. 25, plaid clothing, Feb. 1, rainbow day and Feb. 8, Hawaiian day.

Pleviak choir date set

The Pleviak Enrichment Choir has set Feb. 27 at 7 p.m. in the "old" gym for its first concert. Parents and community members are invited..

Pleviak web page a winner

The Pleviak elementary School web page, created and designed by teacher Scott Kapchinski, has been the recipient of six awards, including the Teachers' corner Award of excellence for Educational Web sites, The School district Award of Excellence, The About.Com Class Act Award, The Golden Web Award for 2001-02, the Top Educational Site Award from Home and Graphics and the Planetpals Kid Safe Award. The site is designed to keep community members informed about the school.

Weather advisories

Parents looking for information about school closings should tune in to WGN Radio 720 AM, WBBM Radio 780 AM or any of the major television stations. Additionally, information can be obtained by calling 1-900-407-SNOW (95 cents per minute, on a touch-tome phone). Youth and Family Services: counseling generations of Lake Countians

Agency celebrates 40 years of service

collective anxiety of an entire nation went into overdrive on Sept. 11, 2001. America's post war "Day of Infamy" was of such magnitude that not everybody had the financial or social resources to deal with the emotional trauma coming out of New York City and Washington D.C.

In a nation reeling from the horrific images broadcast 24/7 from the East Coast, of huge jets crashing into the World Trade Center towers, there was little shared wisdom about dealing with such a national tragedy that traumatized Americans could draw on.

And yet, Libertyville-based Youth and Family Services didn't wait to be asked. The 40-year-old agency, serving Lake County and beyond from its present facility at 1585 N. Milwaukee Ave., stepped up immediately, and on Oct. 4 sent a team of social workers to the Libertyville High School auditorium to help area residents, mainly parents with young children.

The target group, said Mary Lang, a member of the agency's board, was young children and their parents. Older students, up through high school, said Lang, seemed to have had the opportunities since Sept. 11 to verbalize their feelings with teachers and peers.

Younger children may not have been given the opportunity at home or school to hear a message that would reassure them, said Lang, explaining that the Oct. 4 message social workers gave the children and parents was 'You're safe right now and if that changes, we'll tell you.'

"With the young kids we had questions from the parents on how much exposure (to television coverage of Sept.11) they should allow the children to have. We encouraged the parents to keep their daily structure as normal as possible, to limit the endless CNN coverage, and answer questions honestly and reassure them that all is well."

"It seemed to be a reassuring message to a young child," Lang added. "Some kids noticed a change at home; parents would have the TV on and the kids could sense that it was disruptive. Kids were saying at our center that they felt safer at school than at home. Kids have picked up more on the anxiety and fear caused by Sept. 11."

The agency did its counseling on Oct. 4 free of charge.

"It was not just Sept. 11," said Lang. "It was also the stock market and the stress on the economy. Since Sept. 11, we've had an increase in requests for service from families, for stress and anxiety."

Youth and Family Services, founded in 1962, offers children, adolescents and adults counseling for depression, self esteem, relationship conflicts, family distress, single parenting problems, abuse and trauma, anxiety, school adjustment, separation, divorce, unemployment, financial and job stress and other emotional stress problems.

Most of the agency's clients are from Libertyville, Mundelein, and surrounding areas, and some outside Lake County.

The agency dispenses its services on a sliding fee scale based on ability to pay, which means that clients may pay as little as $10 for a 50-minute session, or a high end of $100.

The YFC counseling and program staff includes master's and doctoral level social workers and counselors. The agency adheres to professional standards and ethics outlined by the National Association of Social Workers and the American Counseling Association.

Don McDevitt, director of the agency the last seven years, said when people get the opportunity to talk to a social worker about one thing, that other issues, some deeply hidden, can come to the fore. "The ghosts come out," McDevitt said, adding that the agency's programs are not focused on people with terrible problems waiting until they can't stand it any longer. "We have quite a few programs that are supportive and preventative."

McDevitt said YFC performs 11,000 hours of service a year. "Typically, we have over 500 cases open at any point in time," said

SPECIAL EVENT

Carmel High School toasts Broadway with 'Street Scenes'

When we think of entertainment, we think of the great shows and plays on Broadway. Experience the music and excitement of Broadway at the 28th annual Carmel High School "Street Scenes" on Friday Feb. 8 and Saturday Feb. 9.

This year you will be able to stroll down Broadway, see the 42nd Street Understudies, tour a Broadway Bazaar and think about the funniest things that happened on the way to Broadway. If you look carefully, you may see the Phantom, a Blue Moon, or stop in at the T-Bird Lounge. Plan to arrive hungry because there will be a choice of food at Das Brat Haus, The Irish Pub or the 5th Street Sandwich Shop. Get your fill at the Carmel Café and stay for breakfast at the end of the evening.

At the very center of the Carmel "Street Scenes" is the annual student show, the "Curly-Girly, Hurly-Burly Revue," celebrating "The Very Best Dream." Through song and dance the students will get your heart pounding with the effort they put into each and every show.

Each year volunteers turn Carmel's classrooms into cabarets, nightclubs, restaurants, fast food places and even a Las Vegas-style gaming parlor where people can forget about winter. "We know that thousands of Cook, Lake and McHenry county residents attend the February event to celebrate the fact that in only a few short months, spring will arrive in the Chicago area," said Bob Arvidson, chair of the event.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. each evening and stay open until it is time for an early breakfast. On-campus parking is limited, but additional parking will be made available at a number of Mundelein businesses lining Hawley Street. Free shuttles between the school and the lots operate all evening. The shuttles run until everyone leaves at the end of the evening. Guests who agree to be designated driver for the evening will get a wristband affording them free soft drinks for the night. Admission is $20 per person at the door or $17.50 in advance. All guests must be 21 or over.

Carmel High School is located on Rte. 176 on the eastern edge of Mundelein, between Milwaukee Ave. (Rte. 21) and Rte. 45. Tickets are available at the door, through any Carmel student or by calling 847-566-3000.

WORKSHOPS

Tax time

Upgrade finances

Ann Dorski, a financial advisor with First Union Securities in Gurnee, will be the guest speaker at the Wednesday, Jan. 30 Lake Cook Women in Management meeting. The presentation will cover financial planning upgrades available, most notably education planning gift opportunities through use of the 529 plan and Education IRA.

The meeting takes place at Flatlander's, northeast corner of Rte. 45 and 21. Registration and networking begins at 7:15 a.m.; program at 8 a.m. Cost is $14 for members, $19 for nonmembers with a reservation and $21 for nonmembers without a reservation. Plan to pay at the door. Call 847-855-4768 for more information.

WRITERS

Beyond the top ten

Lake Forest author Kathy Stevenson will lead "Beyond the Best Sellers" at Gorton Community Center, 400 E. Illinois Rd. in Lake Forest, on Wednesday, Jan. 30, from 10-11:30 a.m. The fee is $15. Stevenson will lead discussion on the hundreds of outstanding books published every year that never make it to the upper echelons of the "top ten list." She will review 20 of the latest books, fiction and non fiction, that are "beyond the best sellers."

Participants must register and pay in advance. For information, call 847-234-6060.

NATURE

Frogs

Can't tell a bullfrog from a bullhorn?

Think Northern leopard frogs are only found in Africa? Then head to the McHenry County Conservation District's Frog Monitoring Workshop on Saturday, Feb. 2 from 10 a.m.-1p.m. at the Prairieview Education Center in Crystal Lake.

Participants ages 18 years and older will learn how to identify and document frogs and toads by their calls. After completing training, volunteers will monitor MCCD areas of their own private wetlands in order to gather information on the abundance and distribution of frogs and toads throughout the region.

Registration for the workshop is required. Call Prairieview Education Center at 815-479-5779.

Nature camps

Lake County Forest Preserves' Summer Camps and Day Programs offer nature, history and outdoor skills instruction for children ages 4-14. Programs are offered at Preserve locations throughout Lake County.

Detailed program information and registration forms are available on the web site at www.co.lake.il.us/forest or call the 24-hour hotline at 847-968-3212 to receive a brochure in the mail. Register by Feb. 15 and receive a discount.

MUSIC

Live, on stage

The weekend music line-up for Durty Nellie's, 55 N. Bothwell in Palatine, begins at 10 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 25 with the band Underwater People on the main stage and West of Rome and Voices on Saturday, Jan. 26. Cover is $5 for both nights.

On the small room stage, Maggie Speaks will appear on Friday, Feb. 1 at 10 p.m. Cover will be $5 per person. For more information, call 847-358-9150 or visit the web site at www.durtynellies.com.

Cabaret evening

On Feb. 1 and 2 the Lake Forest Symphony Association will present its fifth annual Cabaret Dinner Evening featuring Lauri Vasar, baritone, and Katrin Lehismets, soprano, at the Knollwood Club in Lake Forest at 6 p.m. The pair, a real-life husband and wife, will sing music from "Kiss Me Kate," "Phantom of the Opera," "West Side Story" and favorites from Rodgers and Hammerstein.

The Cabaret sponsor is First Midwest Bank, and the guest artist sponsor is the Anderson Corporation. Tickets for the program are $90 per person and advance reservations are required. For information, call or visit the Symphony office at 50 E. Old Mill Rd., 847-295-2135.

Mardi Gras

A Mardi Gras fundraiser to benefit educational programming will be the first fundraiser for the Crossroads Center for Faith and Work, an evening of jazz music, refreshments and thought-provoking conversation amidst a community of people interested in integrating spirituality in the workplace.

The Event will take place on Friday, Feb. 8, 5-9 p.m. at the Union League Club of Chicago, 65 West Jackson Blvd. in Chicago.

Reserve or purchase your ticket in advance by calling 312-831-9354. Advance single ticket price through Feb. 6 is $60 per ticket, $100 per pair of tickets. All tickets are $65 per ticket at the door.

Proceeds support the educational outreach programs of the Crossroads Center for Faith and Work including Civic Forum.

Contact Christina Shaver at the Crossroads Center for Faith and Work. For information call 312-831-9354.

WINTER FUN

Sledding

The Northbrook Park District operates two winter sled hills, open as soon as enough snow safely covers the sledding areas. The Wood Oaks Green Hill is located at the 1150 Sanders Rd. Park and will be open Monday through Friday, 3:30 p.m. to dusk, Saturday and Sunday from noon to dusk.

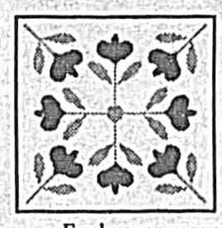

The Meadowhill South sled hill is located at 1700 Techny Rd. Hours are: Monday through Thursday 4-6:30 p.m., Friday 4-8:30 p.m. Saturday noon-8:30 p.m. and Sunday noon-6:30 p.m. For safety purposes, non-manufactured sledding devices, snowboards skis or ice skates are not permitted on sled hills. Call the recorded message hot line, 847-291-2985, for updated information.

Snowshoeing

Enjoy the invigorating winter sport of snowshoeing at Sportsman's Country Club this winter. The Northbrook Park District will rent snowshoes to youths and adults each day that winter conditions are favorable. Hours are 10 a.m.-3 p.m. and rentals cost $3 for youths and $4 for adults. The fairways and rolling hills at Sportsman's are ideal for winter outdoor sports and snowshoeing. The Club is located at 3535 Dundee Rd. in Northbrook. To learn if snow conditions are favorable for snowshoeing, call 847-291-2351, ext. 3.

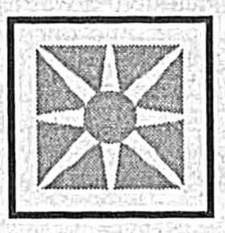

QUILTING

Piecing together

In keeping with a long-standing tradition of perpetuating traditional skills like that of quilting, the McHenry County Historical Society hosted a quilt piecing party on Jan. 16 at the Society's Museum, 6422 Main St. in Union.

Each year members of the Heritage Quilters design, layout, and handstitch a quilt that is raffled off, earning money for the not-for-profit McHenry County Historical Society. At the January quilt piecing party the new quilt design was presented and work began on the individual blocks that will make up the quilt. Then on Wednesday mornings throughout the rest of year, quilters gather to work. Skills are passed on from experienced stitchers to those who come to learn.

Anyone interested in participating in the quilt piecing meetings, which are open to the public, should contact the McHenry County Historical Society Museum at 815-923-2267.

CLC Showing of

The College of Lake County's spring 2002 International Film Series, will present "Akira" on Friday, Jan. 25. Akira is considered one of the most influential and visually spectacular science fiction films ever made. This Japanese film takes the audience to the streets of a futuristic Tokyo where punks battle each other and government forces. The film will be subtitled and shown at 7 p.m. in D100 at the Grayslake Campus. The film has adult content and is not suitable for children. Admission is free and open to the public.

U of I community focus

Lake County Extension is hosting a community focus group to solicit citizen input on community and economic development issues. As part of the University of Illinois, the Lake County office provides research-based information and resources to citizens based on local issues and needs.

"We are developing our long-term plan of work in the community and economic development subject area," indicated Jim Betustak, Unit Leader in Lake County. "We want citizens to help us identify what resources from the U of I would be helpful to community groups, elected officials, teachers and other interested citizens."

The public is invited to attend any one of the focus groups, which will be held at various locations on different dates. The next meeting scheduled will be on Jan. 31 from 7-8:30 p.m. at Shields Township Hall in Lake Bluff. Additional meeting will be on Feb. 6, 7-8:30 p.m. at Foglia YMCA in Lake Zurich; Feb. 13, 6:30-8 p.m. at the Round Lake Park Village Hall; and Feb. 19, at 7 p.m. at the First National Bank in Antioch.

Shakespeare with a twist

The third show of PM&L's Season 41, the Reduced Shakespeare Company's "Complete Works of William Shakespeare (Abridged)" by Jeff Borgeson, Adam Land and Daniel Singer, has to be seen to be believed. Play dates are Feb. 8, 9, 15, 16, 22 and 23 at 8 p.m. and Feb. 10, 17 and 24 at 2:30 p.m. at the PM&L Theatre, 877 Main St. in Antioch.

According to the British, "It's well-known that Americans are too impatient to read much and have short attention spans," so the Reduced Shakespeare Company, with its myriad "Abridged" versions of literature and history, takes that idea to its ridiculous and often hilarious extreme.

With a cast of just five actors, the company somehow manages to compress all of Shakespear's 37 plays into 97 minutes. "Hamlet" is performed backward, all the comedies are performed in a single play, and "Othello" as a rap song. Director Bruce Weise, from Woodstock, has chosen Paul Bleadow from Kenosha; Timothy Curtis from Woodstock; Stacey Majers from Antioch; Maraugh Quilan from Woodstock; and Ken Scheskie from Salem, Wis. Reggie Reynolds, from Antioch, is stage manager.

Reservations begin Jan. 28. Box office hours are Monday-Thursday 5:30-7:30 p.m. Saturday 11 a.m.-2 p.m., and 1 1/2 hrs. before curtain time. Ticket prices are $10 for adults and $8 for students and seniors.

For more information or for tickets, call 847-395-3055.

Sail away in the chill of winter

More than 20,00 people are expected to visit Navy Pier to see more than 250 exhibitors showcasing sailboats, products and services at the Seventh Annual Strictly Sail Chicago, hosted by Sail America and National Marine Manufacturers Association (NMMA) Jan. 31-Feb. 3.

Why hold a sailing exhibition in Chicago in January? "Winter boat shows are popular because boat dealers can get away from their stores to meet the public," says Sail America executive director Scot West. "The timing also gives buyers the lead time to have new boats ready for the first spring sail. Boat prices tend to be lower in the winter months, and the cold temperatures prompt sailors to cure 'cabin fever' and decide what they're going to do in the summer."

New to this year's show is an interactive virtual sailing system. A 12' to 15' boat will be hooked up to a tripod, giving attendees a chance to experience sailing indoors. One successful attraction making a return to this year's event will be the remote control pond, where adults and kids can race miniature sailboats for a chance to win prizes.

A host of educational and informational seminars are also scheduled for the event. Attendees can also learn what is involved in purchasing a sailboat and everything else they will need to get into the sport of sailing at the Discover Sailing Center.

The show is open 11 a.m.-8 p.m. the first two days of the show. Hours are from 10 a.m.-8 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m.-6 p.m. on Sunday.

For information on the exhibit, call 401-841-0900, or visit www.sailamerica.com.

FROM LL1

AGENCY

McDevitt. "Our funding is $650,000 a year and roughly a third of that comes from United Way of Lake County, a third from clients' fees, and a third from contributions and the generous (volunteer) work of our board of directors."

YFC's mission statement — "Which is short but effective, said McDevitt. — reads: Youth and Famil Counseling is a private, not-for-profit social service agency providing counseling, therapy and education services to individuals and families who live and/or work in Lake County, to maintain and enhance their emotional and psychological well-being regardless of ability to pay."

Lang and McDevitt point to a diverse list of volunteers and board members who became involved with the agency at one level or another, and stayed aboard, offering their services for years at a time.

Typical of this, they said, is Liz Neary, who got involved as a young working mother with Family Circle after the birth of her first child, Tommy, seven years ago, and then her daughter, Paige, six years ago. She is now a board member and, she said, the camaraderie is such among the volunteers and staff that on Jan. 12 the people from Family Circle threw her a surprise birthday party.

"When I had my first baby I didn't know anybody (in Libertyville)," said Neary, "and I kind of dropped in one Thursday morning at the First Presbyterian Church for the Family Circle Program.

"I talked to Tony Ray and Laura Hanson, the social workers who started the program," said Neary, "It was the kind of thing where the social workers would walk around, very informally and ask you how you were doing. It was not like a social worker coming over and saying, 'Tell me about your problems.'

"This was more informal, very friendly, people talking to people. And if someone had a question like 'My child bites. What am I going to do,' there were people there to answer the question. It was like you were talking to your peers. And once we got going, my daughter Paige would see other kids she knew."

Neary moved from Family Circle to joining the board, where her experience as a professional planner was put to use fundraising for the agency. "Everybody is friendly and it's a great organization. I can't recommend it enough."

Added McDevitt, "A past president is Carol Picollo and her goal as president was to make all people realize that they could take advantage of our services, that this was not just a rich people's place."

The agency's outgoing president is Mike Godwin and the new president is Gary Holland.

Several YFC group programs are available at much lower fees, usually $5 or $10. They include:

- Kids' Connection. An ongoing group experience at the YFC, for girls 9-13. The focus of the group is to bring together girls from single parent homes. It builds healthy peer relationships, teaches self expression and helps girls share frustrations and concerns with peers.
- Kids Who Care. A counseling and support program at the YFC for children, ages 6-12, who are either living in families in which a close member has been diagnosed with a life-threatening and/or chronic illness, or have lost someone to a terminal illness.
- Sibling Support Group. A 7-week group at the YFC for children 6-12 who have special needs as brothers and sisters. The group provides opportunities for children to meet other children, share ideas and feelings, and gain support and information.
- S.T.E.P (Systematic Training for Effective Parenting). A 7-week course to teach parents skills for listening, disciplining and resolving conflicts with young children. Topics discussed include the basics of early childhood development, communications skills and a system of discipline based on natural and logical consequences.
- Women's Connection. An on-going group therapy at the YFC for women who are coping with multiple life stressors, such as single parenting, financial stress, families issues and illness.
- Understanding Anger & Aggression in Young Children. This program, at St. Lawrence Episcopal Church, 125 W. Church St., Libertyville, will discuss ways that parents/caregivers can understand the meaning of their child's behavior. Ideas for managing the behaviors will be presented and there is time for specific questions.
- Family Circle Program. A program for parents of children ages 0-5, at the First Presbyterian Church, Libertyville, on Thursdays from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. The drop-in program allows parents and their children toddlers to show up without appointment.

For information on any of the programs, call (847) 367-5991.

Six more weeks of winter?

Residents of Lake County have enjoyed a relatively mild winter this season, but how will the winter end? Do we have more chilly days ahead or is spring around the corner? Find out what the groundhogs have to say—or see—by attending one of several family events planned for Groundhog Day, Saturday, Feb. 2.

Celebrating Groundhog Day

• Ryerson Woods' critter

The Lake County Forest Preserves at Ryerson Woods, River Road in Bannockburn, will celebrate Groundhog Day, Saturday, Feb. 2 from 1:30-2:30 p.m. with events for families with children 8 years and younger. Visit their famous groundhog burrow and wake up the strangest woodchuck you've ever seen. Come inside to hear a larger-than-life costumed critter share the joys and woes of day-to-day groundhog life.

Registration and prepayment are required. Cost for Lake County residents is $5 per person, $7 for non-residents. For additional information, call 847-968-3321.

• Library extravaganza

The Round Lake Area Library, 906 Hart Rd. in Round Lake, will host a Groundhog Extravaganza on Saturday, Feb. 2 at 10 a.m. for children ages 4-8. Getting tired of winter? Look forward to spring as the library celebrates an often overlooked holiday. They will honor the little critter on his day with groundhog stories, songs, games and activities. Registration is now underway. Call 847-546-7060 for information.

• Celebrate the seasons

Look for signs of life in the dead of winter with the McHenry County Conservation District. Is spring just around the corner or still six weeks away? Find out on Feb. 2 from 2-3:30 p.m. at "Groundhogs: A Celebration of the Seasons" at the Wiedrich Education Center, Glacial Park in Ringwood. Children ages 8-12 years old with an adult chaperone will go on a scavenger hunt hike and then come inside for warm beverages and a prize.

Registration is required and program spaces assigned by lottery. Call the Prairieview Education Center at 815-479-5779 for registration and information.

• Four-legged forecaster

"Cloudy" the groundhog will predict if there will be six more weeks of winter on Saturday, Feb. 2 at Brookfield Zoo. Join zookeepers at 10:30 a.m. in Children's Zoo as they entice the resident meteorologist from her winter digs with a special carrot cake.

For information, call 708-485-0263, ext. 879 or visit the web site at www.brookfieldzoo.org.

• Wanda predicts

Winter blahs getting you down? Visit the Milwaukee Zoo, 10001 W. Bluemound Rd. in Milwaukee, on Saturday, Feb. 2 and watch "Wanda," the zoo's resident groundhog, as she takes center stage and reveals her expert weather prediction at 11 a.m.

For information, call 414-771-3040.

Cloudy, Brookfield Zoo's resident meteorologist, will appear on Friday, Feb. 2 at 10:30 a.m. to give her forecast. Call 708-485-0263, ext. 879 for more information on the days events at Brookfield Zoo.

Woodstock prepares for the furry prognosticator

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the filming of the movie "Groundhog Day," starring Bill Murray and Andi McDowell. Join the Groundhog Day Committee of Woodstock for their weekend celebration Friday, Feb. 1 through Sunday, Feb. 3. Activities include storytelling, ice sculpting, an art contest and more. Following is a tentative schedule of events:

- Free showing of "Groundhog Day," the movie, on Friday, Feb. 1 at 4:30 p.m., and Saturday, Feb. 2 and Sunday, Feb. 3 at 2:30 p.m.
- Groundhog Prognostication on the Woodstock Square, Saturday, Feb. 2 at 7:07 a.m. Breakfast immediately following in the upper level of the Old Courthouse. Tickets on sale at the Chamber of Commerce, the Public Library, and the Old Court House Arts Center.
- Groundhog Tales, storytelling with Jim May at the Woodstock Public Library from 10-11 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 2. Call 815-338-0542.
- Saturday, Feb. 2 and Sunday, Feb. 3 at 1 p.m.—Walking Tour of Filming Sites. Meet at the Spring House. Event will include plaque recognition of Cherry Street Inn.
- Groundhog Day Dinner/Dance and Auction Saturday, Feb. 2 from 5:30 p.m.-midnight. Benefiting the D200 Education Foundation, Bull Valley Golf Club and featuring the live band Trilogy. Call 815-338-8200 for tickets.
- Pancake Breakfast, Sunday, Feb. 3 from 9 a.m.-noon. Sponsored by the Woodstock Lions Club at the Woodstock VFW. Tickets available at the door. Call 815-338-0490 for more information.

Listed on the National Register of Historic Places, the Square of Woodstock offers many shops and retail establishments in a unique and nostalgic atmosphere.

For more information on events, call the Groundhog Day Hotline at 815-338-2436.

'Brotherhood' is tour de force action

movie review

Helen Concepcion:

I'm not the type of person who usually hauls out my soap box and climbs on it to lecture on anything, especially the merits of a film.

In this case I do so, because I proudly declare that I am an American who is not afraid of foreign subtitled movies and, if you are, you certainly have been missing out on some fantastic films in the past couple of years. Not least of which are films like "Life is Beautiful," "Amelie," and "Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon."

The latest French film to hit the American movie screens, "Le Pacte des loups" or "The Brotherhood of the Wolf," though currently in limited release, is one that should definitely be checked out.

The film, set in 18th century France, is the tale of a naturalist, Grégoire de Fronsac (played by Samuel Le Bihan), who is dispatched by the King to the remote French countryside, to report to him about an elusive "Beast" that has been terrorizing and devouring the peasants.

Having come from Paris, Fronsac is regarded by the locals as an outsider, which is only accentuated by the fact that he has a Native American sidekick named Mani (played beautifully by Mark Dacascos).

The movie cannot help but be compared to other, sometimes unrelated movies.

The film starts out as a period piece, reminiscent of a Merchant Ivory film, but with a certain Emeril Lagasse flair, it has been "kicked up a notch."

"Brotherhood" reminds me of "Sleepy Hollow" in its surreal, horror elements, but combines martial arts and special effects in an effective manner such as "The Matrix" did.

It also provides elements of Native American mysticism, romance, corruption in the Roman Catholic Church and over-the-top action and gore.

As the Beast is pursued by hunters and Fronsac, detailed accounts from survivors do not aid in their attempts to destroy the creature. Is it a wolf? Is it even an animal? Or is it a demon with an even darker purpose?

"Brotherhood" even makes me think of the animated film "Princess Mononoke" in the lesson it teaches about what happens when nature is being encroached upon by man.

I couldn't even begin to go into the heavy plot of the film, but any of these elements sound appealing to you, go see this movie. It won't disappoint.

A word of advice to those leery of subtitles, sit toward the back of the theater; that way you can read the subtitles comfortably and still take in all the action on the screen.

'Moon Over Buffalo' shines at Attic Playhouse

Ken Ludwig's "Moon Over Buffalo" is now playing at the Attic Playhouse through Feb. 24. Performances are on Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 3 p.m. The Attic Playhouse is located at 410 Sheridan Rd. in Highwood, just north of Rte. 22 (Half Day Road), one block east of Green Bay Road, across from the Highwood train station.

"Moon Over Buffalo" takes place on-stage and backstage at the fictitious Erlanger Theatre in Buffalo. It's 1953, and a troupe of actors daily perform a repertory consisting of Noel Coward's "Private Lives" and "Cyrano de Bergerac" (a revised one-nostril version). George and Charlotte Hay, a once-famous theatrical duo that couldn't make it in Hollywood, play all of the leads - whether they are right for the roles or not. Fate has given these thespians one more shot at starring in "The Scarlet Pimpernel" epic film, and director Frank Capra himself is en route to Buffalo to catch their matinee performance.

Hilarious misunderstandings pile on madcap misadventures, all of which are magnified by the return of their daughter, Rosalind, to introduce her fiancé, Howard; her ex-boyfriend and troupe member, Paul; George's much younger mistress, Eileen; and Ethel, Charlotte's deaf mother who manages the theatre.

Tickets are $14 advanced purchase and $15 at the door. Special discounts are given to senior citizens, students with ID, military personnel and groups.

For tickets and information, call 847-433-2660.

St. James presents Andrea Taylor

Soprano Andrea Arndahl Taylor and pianist Richard Boldrey will present a recital on Sunday, Feb. 3, 3 p.m., at St. James Lutheran Church, 1380 N. Waukegan Rd. in Lake Forest, as part of the 2001-02 season of "Music at St. James."

The program will include selections from Handel oratorios, French pieces by Berlioz and Koechlin, Italian selections by Bellini and Verdi, "Six Elizabethan Songs" by Argento, "Green Finch and Linnet Bird" from Sondheim's "Sweeney Todd," and "Glitter and Be Gay" from Bernstein's "Candide."

Taylor sings professionally with the Chicago Symphony Chorus and Chicago Symphony Singers and directs the Children's Choir and Youth Choir at St. James Lutheran Church. Richard Boldrey is well known as a pianist, vocal coach, conductor, professor and author.

There is no admission charge for "Music at St. James" concerts; a freewill offering will be received.

For information, call St. James Lutheran Church at 847-234-4859 or visit the church's web site at www.stjameslutheran.org.

HOROSCOPE

Aries – March 21/April 20
Conceit can get you into trouble, Aries, but you seem to ignore all warnings this week. A coworker gets defensive as a result. Money matters seem bleak — reconcile bank accounts.

Taurus – April 21/May 21
A great opportunity arises on Tuesday but you may be too busy to see it coming. It's best if you take the day off to make the most of this one-time deal. Libra is key.

Gemini – May 22/June 21
You haven't been feeling your best, Gemini, and this week probably will be no better. Relax, lay low for a while and try to recuperate. A special friend drops by for a visit.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
It seems you've gotten yourself into another work bind. You just can't seem to find a place to work that interests you, Cancer. Keep looking; don't settle for just anything. Aquarius helps out.

Leo – July 23/August 23
Have you been feeling lonely, Leo? It might be time to invite over some friends to help beat the winter blues. Thursday seems a good day for a late dinner. Romance could follow!

VIRGO – Aug 24/Sept 22
Too many road trips have put wear on your car, Virgo. You just made the investment, so take it easy for a while. Tuesday is a good day for relaxation — something you need.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23
You've decided to jump in and finally get that pesky task done that's been haunting you. Good for you! Wednesday is an uneventful day, so sleep in and enjoy it.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22
A better mood keeps you lively this week, Scorpio. When you're on a roll no one can match your work effort so make sure the boss sees all of your hard work.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21
It seems you've been pondering starting a new business. Remember, being self-employed has its benefits but also several downfalls — consider them carefully. Capricorn is the one to watch out for this week.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20
A trip to the doctor has you mending some of your wild ways, Capricorn. Now is not the time for fun and games but concentration on setting a course for your future. Expect Friday to be very exciting.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
No plans for your birthday, Aquarius? Why not think creatively and coordinate a hiking trip with friends. The countryside looks beautiful snow-covered. Virgo will help.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
Have you been waiting for some good luck to come your way, Pisces? Well, this week it just may arrive in the form of an overdue check. Spend the money wisely, but have fun.

ANTIOCH

DUI/warrant arrest

Edward W. Jorgensen, 39, of 26098 W. Montrose Ave., Antioch, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol and arrested on warrant on Jan. 15 at 8:39 p.m. on Toft St. at Rte. 83.

Jorgensen had been in the right-hand turn lane at the intersection, but when the light change he stayed and then lurched forward and turned left. At that time, the officer also noticed that his rear registration light was inoperable.

Jorgensen gave police an Illinois identification card and said he did not have a valid driver's license.

The officer asked what happened at the light and Jorgensen told him he had been talking to his girlfriend on the telephone, and after pausing and staring forward told police he didn't have a telephone when he was asked to produce it.

Police detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage on Jorgensen's breath and asked that he exit the vehicle for field sobriety testing. He agreed, but after failing two tests told police he wouldn't continue.

Jorgensen was arrested on DUI and held in the back of the squad car while his identifiers were checked through LEADS/SOS. Information came back that Jorgensen had a revoked Illinois driver's license and was wanted on warrant through Lake County for DUI with bond set in the amount of $10,000 (10 percent applies).

Upon arrival at the Antioch Police Dept., Jorgensen was issued a citation for having no rear registration light. He was given an opportunity to secure bond. Chemical testing was refused.

Additional citations were issued for DUI and driving while revoked. Jorgensen was put through booking procedures and released on personal recognizance on the new charges, and was then transported to the Lake County Jail.

Driving while revoked

Ronald C. Burrell, 53, of 271 Sunset Lane, Antioch, was arrested for driving while revoked on Jan 16 at 11:40 a.m. at the intersection of Hillside and Orchard streets.

Burrell was seen waiting to turn southbound onto Hillside from Orchard, and was known to police from prior contacts to have a revoked driver's license. He told the officer he knew he shouldn't be driving, but his wife was ill and he had to get to work.

Burrell was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was issued a citation for driving while revoked and failure to wear a seatbelt. He was put through booking procedures and released on personal recognizance pending his Feb. 13 court date.

Township holds onto salt

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Township road crews haven't missed working overtime, according to highway supervisor Mark Ring, and if the supply of salt isn't used this winter it will be stored for next year.

"The salt isn't going anywhere," said Ring. "We buy it through state bid (co-op manner) so that we get better prices."

Ring said it wouldn't be a hardship for the township to store the salt in the event we never get weather typical to the area. "We usually order salt by April, so if all of this is still sitting here, we won't order any for next year."

'The salt isn't going anywhere, we buy it through state bid (co-op manner) so that we get better prices.'

Mark Ring
to highway supervisor

Ring said none of his workers have complained about the lack of overtime. He said, "If it does come it's a nice bonus, but no one counts on it. Besides, the snow usually comes over the holiday, and we'd all rather be home to unwrap Christmas presents with the kids than out plowing snow."

He added, "We're just waiting for winter to end so that we can start regular road work."

Commission announces regular planning and zoning meetings

John Phelps

On guard

Patin, Yarc, Nicoline, Lutz, Peregrin — just a few names of some of the premier guards you've probably seen on the hardwood at one time or another this season.

But there's one who's really come into his own over the last three years. And all of our area teams have faced him at one point or another.

Zion-Benton's Andre White certainly isn't shy when it comes to expressing his emotions, especially after he's had a good game.

"One-on-one, a lot of people have trouble guarding me," the junior point guard said after the Zee-Bees cruised past Lake Forest 66-51.

Andre White

"If a team goes man-to-man on defense, I know the ball is pretty much going to be in my hands. If they play a zone, then they have to come out on me a little more."

It didn't matter against the Scouts, who challenged the former by starting the third quarter of the North Suburban crossover game in a man defense.

The result—White lit up the scoreboard and broke the game open after Zion held only a two-point halftime advantage.

The 5-foot, 10-inch White scored 12 of his game-high 30 points in the third frame, including eight in a row to start the quarter.

"I just started feeling my shot and got the adrenaline going," he said.

Don't be mistaken, though. White does have some help, with Jason George, Dave Rettig MacArthur White and former Lakers Julian Lott and Todd Gordon, to name a few.

Which makes it even more impressive that White has not only assumed the main scoring duties, but the role of a team leader as well.

"He's really becoming a complete all-around player," said Zee-Bee head coach Don Kloth.

And speaking of the summer travelling Lakers, Denny Porter, the league founder and White's former coach, knew his former star was going to be a good one.

"Andre was a team leader when he played for me and that seemingly hasn't changed," said Porter, who founded the Laker organization 34 years ago. White was the team's leading scorer when while playing for the eighth-grade North American Youth Basketball national championship team.

"He just took charge, which was good. He's a type of player everyone looks up to."

The Grant Township Area Athletic Association (GTAAA) will be holding registration Feb. 9 and 16 from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. and Feb. 10 and 17 from noon-4 p.m. at the Grant Township Hall, Washington St., Ingleside.

The registration is for youths ages 5-16 (as of July 31, 2002). Every child 9 and older must supply an original birth certificate in order to register.

Oliver, Sequoits have great expectations

By JOE PRUSKI
Correspondent

After an appearance at the state championship last year, Antioch varsity wrestler Steve Oliver has just begun to get back to his old form.

"I'm doing pretty good now," said Oliver. "I started out worse but now I'm doing better."

Oliver currently boasts sitting on a 21-12 record at the 189-pound weight. He went undefeated last Saturday at the Antioch double dual meet that included Wauconda, Vernon Hills, and Grayslake. Now, he must set his sights toward the conference meet on Jan. 26 at Stevenson High School.

"I think we have an opportunity to do well at the 189 weight class," said Antioch head coach Ted Sieckowski. "Hopefully Oliver will compete well."

According to Sieckowski, Oliver has been a sporadic wrestler this season.

"He (Oliver) has wrestled beneath and to his abilities this year," said Sieckowski. "Hopefully he will peak at the end of the season."

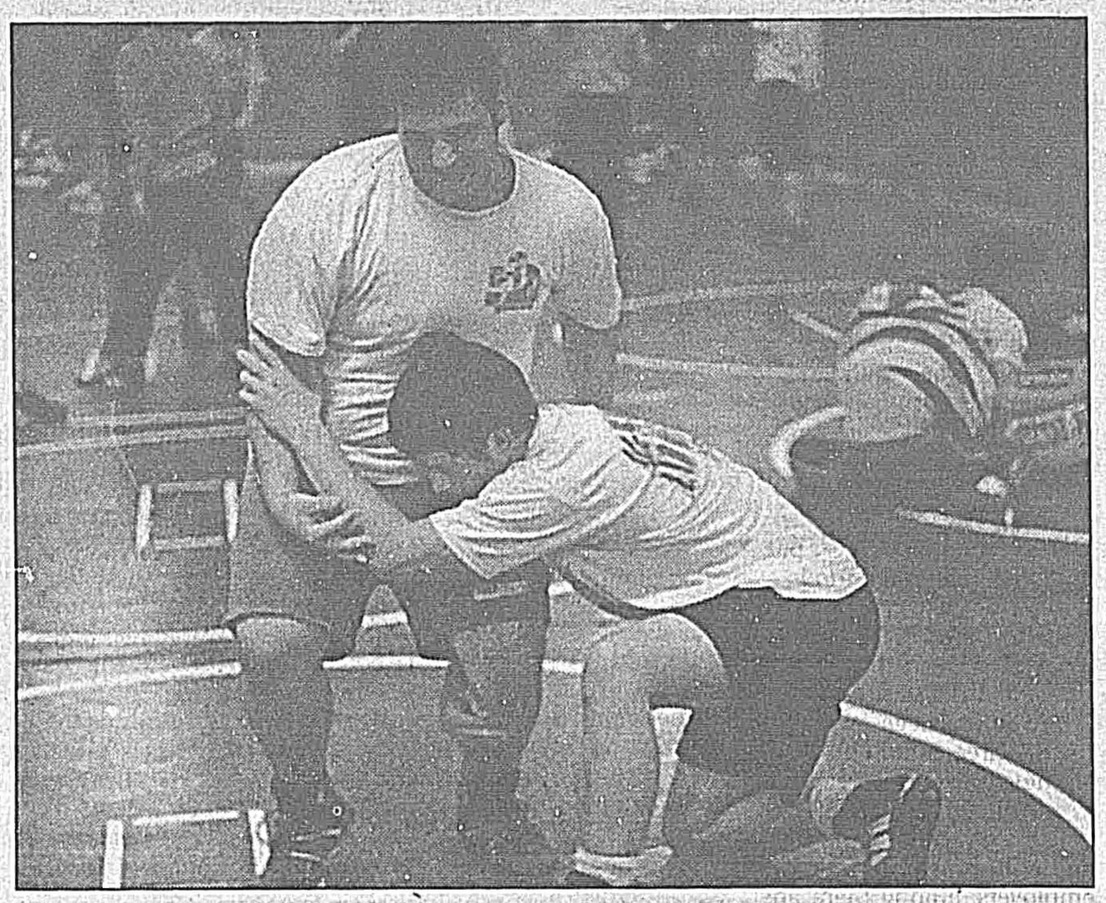

Going into his season Oliver only had one goal in mind—going to the state championship again as a senior.

"My goal this year was to make it to state, I think there is a good chance I can do that," said Oliver.

Sieckowski also believes in the senior's chances.

"A lot of people are worried about him (Oliver) because he has potential and talent," he said As for the rest of the team however, they have not fared so well this year.

"There is no doubt the team has improved, but there are too many holes in our lineup and too much hindering us from having a successful season," said Sieckowski.

Another high bright for Antioch this season has been the performance of 119-pound wrestler Ryan Schuster. Schuster also finished undefeated in the Antioch double dual.

"Some of the guys have really been coming on strong," said Sieckowski. "Schuster and Oliver have wrestled well, James Keating has also had a good season, but he had a tough weekend."

Competition at the NSC meet starts at 10 a.m.

Antioch's Mika turning game up a notch

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

While the inside game has struggled of late and the wins haven't been plentiful, several Antioch varsity girl's basketball players have taken their game to the next level.

Case in point—the standout play of junior point-guard Alex Mika.

"She got off to a slow start this season," said Sequoit head coach Don Zeman. "But her three-point shooting started coming alive over Christmas."

At the McHenry Christmas tournament, Mika was named to the All-tournament team after scoring 20 points or higher in four consecutive games, including a career-high 26.

"She has become an offensive leader for us," added Zeman of Mika, who currently averages around 16 points per game. "Sometimes she even gets a little too anxious."

Mika, who has started every game this year, was the leading scorer for the sophomore squad last season at 19 points per clip.

"We brought her up (to varsity) and she started the last three games for us last season," said Zeman. Her offense has come a long way in a short time."

Mika is primarily known for breaking free of screens to get open for the three-point shot.

"But she is also quick and can get through gaps on defense," said the coach. While her offense is solid, Mika's defensive play is also worth noting, especially if you're the opposition.

"Other teams need to know about her defensively," said Zeman. "One things for sure in that she'll always be around the ball."

In a loss to visiting Warren earlier in the week, Mika was the lone Sequoit to finish in double-digit scoring with 12.

"When we're not getting scoring on the inside, she (Alex) is usually there to pick us up," said Zeman.

Mika's night against the Blue Devils included 3-of-9 field goal shooting, including one trey. She also collected two steals, grabbed four rebounds and dished out three assists.

"If we could have gotten some of the rebounds and putbacks, we would have been right there," Zeman said when Antioch fell behind 32-21 at the break.

Antioch (6-16 overall, 1-8 NSC Lake) travels to Wauconda Jan. 24 for an NSC crossover. Tip-off is set for 6 p.m. The Sequoits drew the 15th seed in the Lake Zurich sectional.

Varsity dance team heads to Palatine tournament

The Antioch varsity dance team has proven that this season is not unlike the previous two. Once again, the team is primed and poised for making another run at a state championship, just like it did two years ago.

The team will find out just how close the competition Jan. 26 when it travels to Palatine High School.

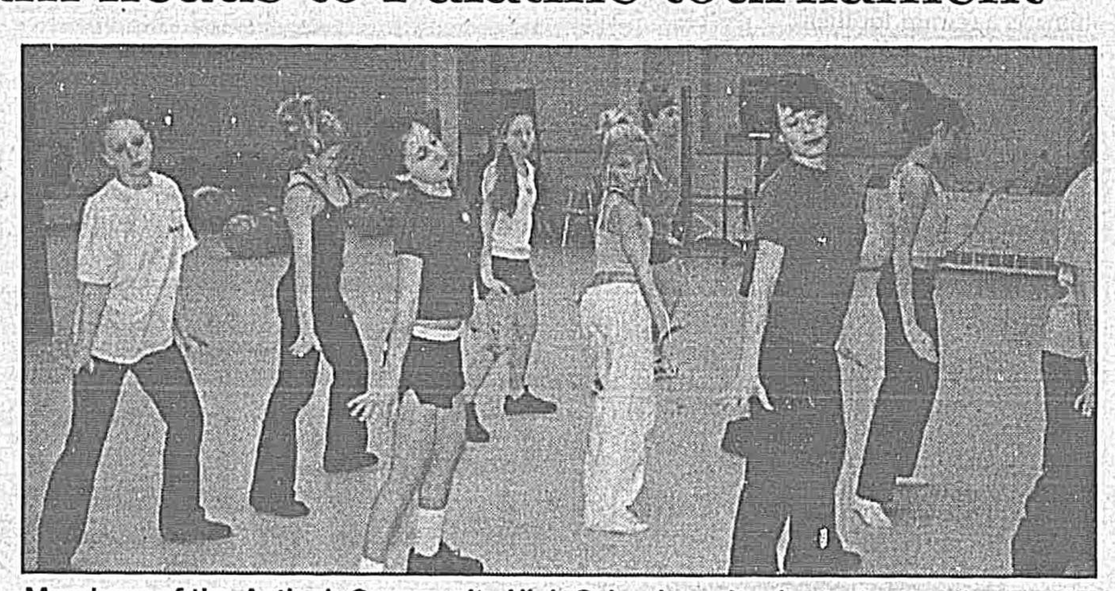

"Other than super sectionals and state, Palatine is our biggest competition," said co-captain Ashley Ginascol. "A lot of top teams in the state are there."

The last two weeks, Antioch has prepared for Palatine by making slight adjustments to their routines.

"We're still in the process of taking what the judges say and using their suggestions to change our routines," said Ginascol. "In our prop routine we added over 20 seconds to it." At the Warren competition, the team took first place in the kick and prop categories. They followed that with a second-place effort in funk. St. Charles East won first in that routine.

"The team chemistry is very good right now," said Ginascol. "We are all complimenting each other and we are working well together."

The high finishes at Warren qualified the team for super-sectionals in each of those events.

Toys for Tots raffle becomes annual

The 2002 class of Jobs for Illinois Graduates (JILG), taught by Nancy Fenton at Antioch Community High School (ACHS), decided to make the Toys for Tots Raffle started by the 2001 class an annual event.

All of the members of the class contributed by obtaining raffle prizes, selling tickets, creating a budget to distribute the toys, shopping, assembling toys that require it and preparing the toys for pick up by the Marines.

The following students received generous donations from their employers to make the event a success: Pat Ryan and Nicole Adelizzi, Lyons and Ryan Ford; Cassy Hogan and Thera Plumley, Antioch Jewel; Stephanie Rock, Olive Garden; Randy Wittig (2001), Domino's Pizza; Sarah Lang, Coconuts Tanning; Dan Mahar, Dunkin' Donuts; Dominic Rodriguez, Hartnell Chevrolet; James Mitchell, Main Street Custard; Scott Straub, Clark/White Hen; Angela Girardi, Jandee's Hair Salon.

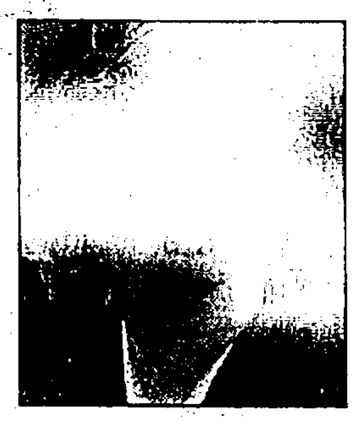

April Volkmar, who works at Wal-Mart in Gurnee, submitted JILG's petition to have the company match the funds generated by the raffle.

The fundraiser generated $969.

The purpose of the JILG classes is to help the students transition smoothly from high school into college, the military or the workforce. Three hundred fifty hours of service learning is tied into the curriculum.

At the core of the JILG classes are 37 competencies viewed as desirable worker traits and skills by both career/job specialists and employers, among them are demonstrating team membership and leadership, and upholding commitment to an organization.

NEIGHBORS

Name: Katherine Beard

Home: Kenosha, Wis.

Occupation: Owner of Days of Yesterday in Antioch. I have been here for two years, but have been in business 30 years and have kept the same name all those years.

Community involvement: Chamber of Commerce

I'm originally from: Nashville, Tenn.

I graduated from: I went to school in Nashville and all over. I traveled.

My family consists of: My husband, three sons, seven grandchildren and am on the verge of three great-grand children.

My pets are: A Chihuahua

What I like best about my town: My husband and I used to camp here. I've always loved Antioch. It's a warm town.

The secret to my success is: I like people and I am honest. I would rather have people happy with what they have than to tell them something just to make a sale.

I relax by: I work.

My perfect day in Antioch would be: I like lots of customers and a sunny day.

My favorite books are: Wuthering Heights and Jane Eyre. I like love stories, but the ones today - well when I was young, if a guy held your hand it was a big thrill.

Favorite TV show is: "Everybody Loves Raymond"

Favorite band or musician: Englebert Humperdink

Favorite restaurant: JT's Roadhouse

My life's motto is: If you don't want the truth, don't ask me.

If I won the lottery, I would: Find some hardworking families in need and set them up with a home, a car and money in the bank. I would also like to give $1 million to an animal foundation. Of course, I would give some money to my children first.

My greatest accomplishment is: Staying alive this long.

I want to be remembered as: A nice, caring person who contributed something to society.

My pet peeve is: The people who do not vote are often the ones complaining. Also, lack of consideration for older people, and not just because I'm older but because respect isn't taught like it was before.

Most interesting person I ever met was: Diamond Roker from Africa. I was on a plane with him from California to Chicago. He was very interesting.

If I had a plane ticket anywhere, I would go: Aruba

Make The Cut

I went to the District 117 crisis plan meeting, one of the few parents able to make it on a Tuesday morning at 9 a.m. The presentation was grim. The plan, if we voters do not pass the referendum this third time to ballot, is to cut programs across the board to avoid a$2 million debt in 2004-5.

What they did not mention was the current $6 million debt we already have in the district, according to the Illinois State Board of Education. That same debt has been increasing annually.

The proposed cuts include across the board extracurricular activities, increased registration, increased driver's education fees, decreased maintenance and less new equipment. While the reaction from the students was discontent, the reality is, it's time.

For some of these students, high school is the last stop before entering the work force. They need to know work ethic before they get there. After school activities are a luxury.

I would like my children to attend a school known for its academic excellence, not it's ball team. They need high test scores. This will happen if the school focuses on curriculum. As a reward for their good grades, I will pay for them to play ball if that is what they wish.

So go ahead and make the cuts. In fact, maybe more cuts than proposed. Cutting driver's education all together along with the sporting programs will reduce the liability insurance for the district as well. Administratively, the cuts would allow for lower support expenses, salaries, benefits, liability insurance, and possibly fewer administrative personnel.

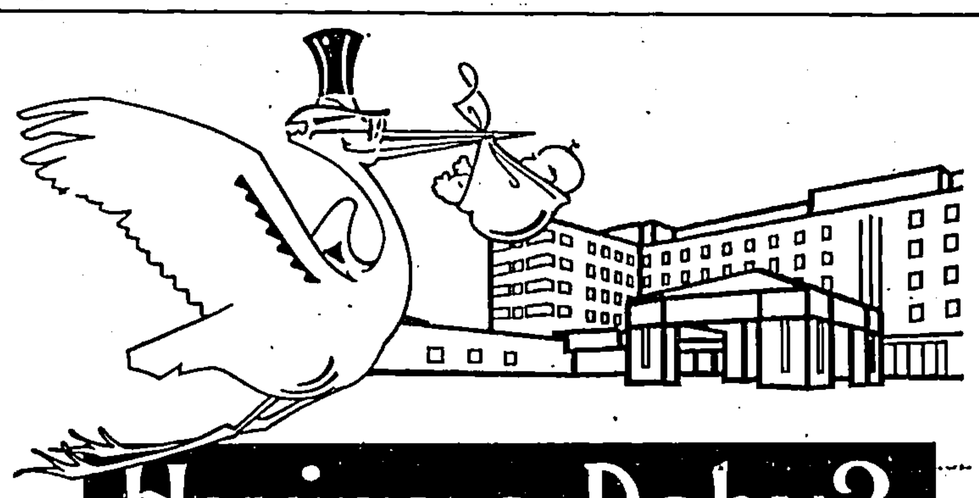

I think a reduction in spending is a good idea. Let's cut the frills and get back to learning.

If your spouse overspent on the credit card, you'd draw the line, right?

STILL NO ON 117!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Flawed meeting

The Antioch Community High School crisis meeting Tuesday January 15 was seriously flawed. First, it was held in the gymnasium on the open floor. Hundreds of students in the bleachers were attentive and well behaved, but they were used. They will bring the message home to their parents that the school board means business and will cut wherever necessary. Since they cannot vote for a referendum they were used as messengers. How will the board get the word out to other voters who have no high school students at home?

Sadly, the students were just about the only ones that could hear what was being said. The sound system in the gym is meant to be heard by the bleacher audience because the loudspeakers are pointed toward them, not down to the floor of the gym. I had a tape recorder running during the entire program and announcements cannot be deciphered.

It was reported that the board president invited me to attend board meetings, but I didn't hear him and no one approached me to say that. It shouldn't be up to one senior citizen to attend board meetings and it would be ineffective for even 25 or 100 people to attend. Thousands of voters will be required to vote and pass the referendum so it should be up to the board to reach out and communicate much more. As reported, "A proposal to use various school and Web sites to spread information about the referendum was well received," but months late. The crisis method of referendums is endemic among school boards everywhere. It's shameful that educated persons depend on threats to get their way. It's arrogant.

Bieschke, Carillo off county ballot

Challenges erase Dist.16 and Dist.3 candidates

Republican John Jay Bieschke's run for Suzi Schmidt's County Board District 3 seat ended abruptly on Jan. 21, when the Lake County Electoral Board ruled that he had an insufficient number of valid signatures on his nominating petition.

In District 16, Javier Carillo was taken off the ballot after a successful challenge by Ed Soto, because his petition did not indicate the office he was seeking.

Cother challenges did not result in candidates being knocked off the ballot. In District 21, a challenge of Martha Marks was withdrawn. In District 9, a challenge of Mary Cunningham failed as the electoral board ruled that there was no intention of fraud.

Scmidt, who hired an attorney, produced a 20-page document detailing 10 objections to the newcomer's ballot, but the board opted to rule only on the first item.

Schmidt brought a 20-page objector's petition before the board, challenging the validity of Bieschke's nominating petitions on 12 different points.

Additionally, many of the signatures are now under scrutiny by the Lake County State's attorney.

In order to save time, the board decided to address and rule on only one, a certain disqualifier: Bieschke was accused of having fewer than the 40 required qualified voters' signatures on his petition.

The board ruled that only five of the signatures submitted were valid registered voters in District 3. The others were disqualified because their addresses are outside the district.

Bieschke argued that before district remapping the addresses were valid. According to County Clerk Willard Helander, Bieschke seemed to feel that people who formerly were in the district, or whose addresses were adjacent to the district, could sign the petition.

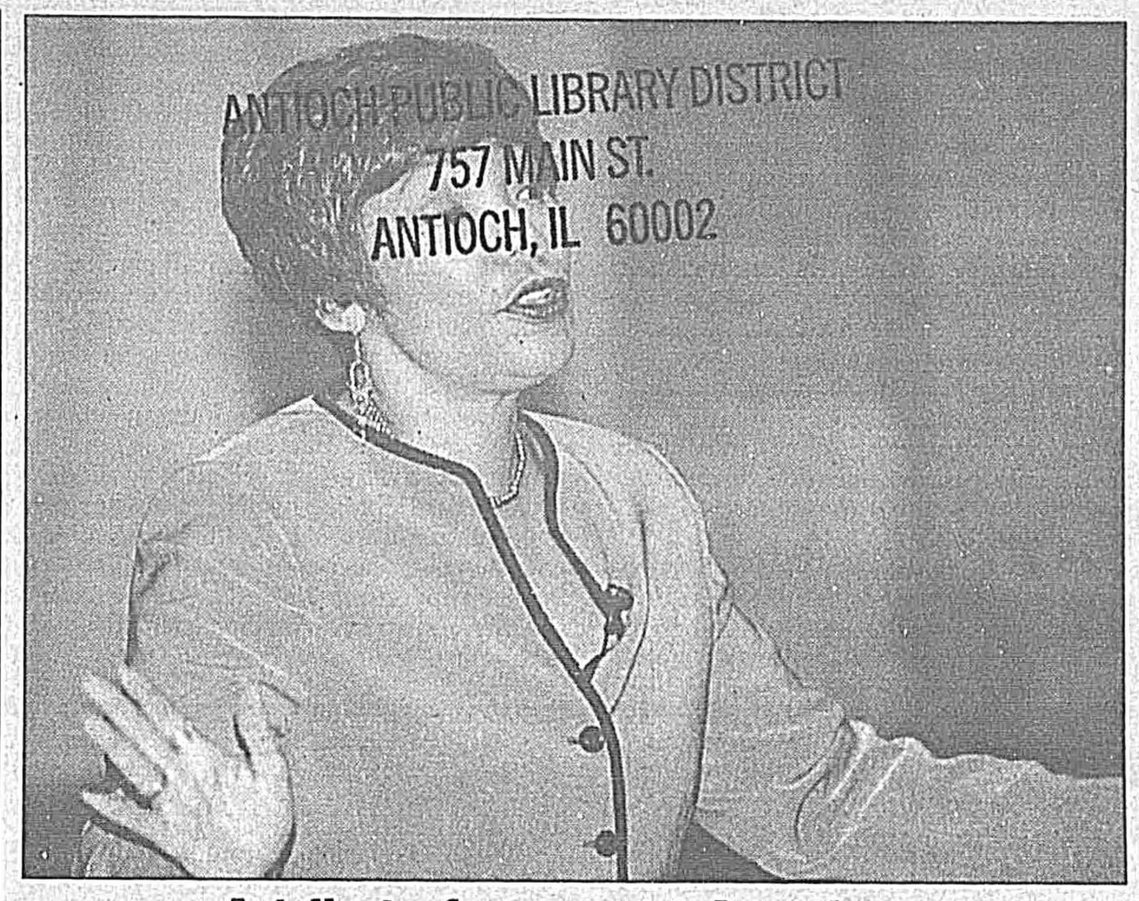

Adding to the confusion, Bieschke himself lives at an address in District 1, not in District 3. On his petition, he lists his address twice: once in Lake Villa and once in Antioch, although with the same street address.

"He said he could move into the district after he was elected," Helander recalled. The county clerk observed that Bieschke seemed to have confused his situation with a state regulation pertaining to state representatives and state senators, designed to prevent representatives being abruptly gerrymandered out of their own districts.

All county board members are required to reside and be registered voters within the district each represents.

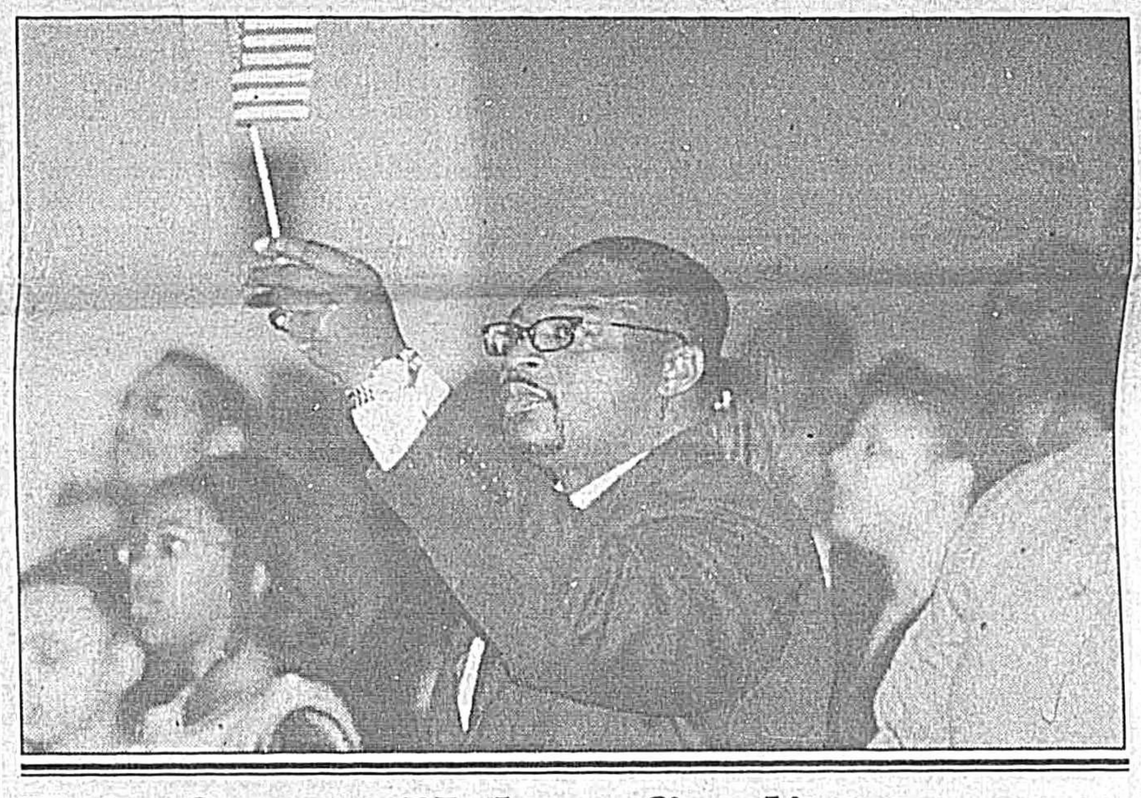

Bieschke, who represented himself against the case presented by Schmidt's attorney, was, according to Waller, "adamant" about appealing the ruling.

When called for an interview, Bieschke uttered a profanity, and refused to comment.

State Sen. Lisa Madigan seeks votes in county

By JEFF ZACHARY
and DENYS BUCKSTEN
Staff Reporters

State Senator Lisa Madigan (D-Chicago) from District 17 paid a visit to Lakeland Newspapers in Grayslake, as part of her campaign to win the democratic nomination for attorney general in the March 19 primary.

"You can't diminish the significance of any part of the state when your running for statewide office," said Madigan. "In Lake County you have very good voter turnout."

In explaining why she wants to be attorney general, Madigan commented, "If you want to make a difference in people's lives in the state, there really isn't a more important job than being the chief law enforcement officer."

The candidate expressed pride in having sponsored legislation that allows the police to confiscate a vehicle if it contains a secret compartment that can be used to conceal weapons that could be used to kill police officers. The bill was signed by Governor George Ryan.

The senator has also co-sponsored legislation to create a family loan program to provide small, no-interest loans to low-income families.

In addition, she has co-sponsored legislation to help survivors of domestic violence maintain their privacy and safety.

Madigan said she would use the attorney general's office as a bully pulpit to combat domestic violence.

"We need people actually who are able to navigate their way through the internet," said Madigan, as she explained that there has been an increase in white collar crime over the internet and that she would combat it.

The senator is the ranking democrat on the Senate Education Committee and said she is concerned about problems with funding of school districts.

Though she displayed knowledge of the financial crisis facing the Round Lake school district she offered no specific solutions to the problem.

The daughter of Illinois House Speaker Mike Madigan said her father's name recognition is nice, but it will not get her elected. And while appreciative of Mayor Richard Daley's unexpected endorsement of her last month, she said she will still need to gain her own followers.

Madigan, admits that her youthful appearance _ she's 31, but looks younger _ could work against her.

"I've had older women come up to me and put their hand on my arm and say, 'Honey, I think you need to be older than 18 to run for the Senate.' "

At the same time, she said, she won't hesitate to get advice from her father. "When I want advice, I have to ask for it," she said. He's a man of a very few words. I am Mike Madigan's daughter and I know that many people will still say I'm running on my father's name."

Madigan indicated that she would come back to Lake County before the primary.

Fair Queen Halvey finalist at state

Molly Halvey, Miss Lake County Fair Queen 2001, placed as a top 12 finalist at the Illinois County Fair Queen competition in Springfield last weekend. This was the 43rd annual pageant where 68 contestants from counties all over Illinois compete for the opportunity to act as hostess at the Illinois State Fair in August.

Halvey is 19 years old and from Grayslake. She is the daughter of Edward and Teresa Halvey and a junior at Washington University in St.. Louis. The competition included the category, speech and communication skills, in which Halvey presented a speech on "Lake County." "The Lake County Fair is proud of Molly's success," says Alyce Brownlee, the Fair's Pageant Director, "This was an extremely challenging competition with 68 very qualified candidates."

Halvey

A representative from Effingham County was presented with the title of Illinois State Fair Queen. Halvey will continue her role as Lake County Fair Queen through July of this year.

National spelling bee starts here

County students will compete at three sites

On Feb. 19, 20, and 21, students from 123 public and non-public schools in Lake County will participate in three sectional spelling bee contests co-sponsored by the Lake County Regional Office of Education and the Chicago Tribune. The three sectional winners will represent Lake County in the Scripps-Howard National Spelling Bee at the Tribune Center in Oakbrook on March 14.

The sectionals will be held at Section I-Feb. 19; School of Saint Mary, 900 W. Everett Rd., Lake Forest; Section II-Feb. 20; Jefferson Middle School-Waukegan Unit School District 60, 600 S. Lewis Ave., Waukegan; Section III-Feb. 21; Washington School-Mundelein School District 75, 122 S. Garfield Ave., Mundelein.

All sectional contests will begin promptly at 6:30 p.m. with an official practice round. Participants must be at their respective sectional site by 6 p.m. Students will not be allowed to be seated as contestants once the practice round begins. The actual first round, or contest round, is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Contact Roycealee Wood, assistant regional superintendent of school, at 543-7833 for more information.

Baxter makes $75,00 grant to Nicasa women's program

The Baxter International Foundation of the Deerfield-based Baxter Healthcare Corp. has presented a $75,000 grant to the Women and Children's Center of Nicasa.

Located in North Chicago, the center provides intensive outpatient substance abuse treatment to women, many of whom are mothers. Among the center's many services are childcare, parenting classes, aggression control training and social and job skills development classes.

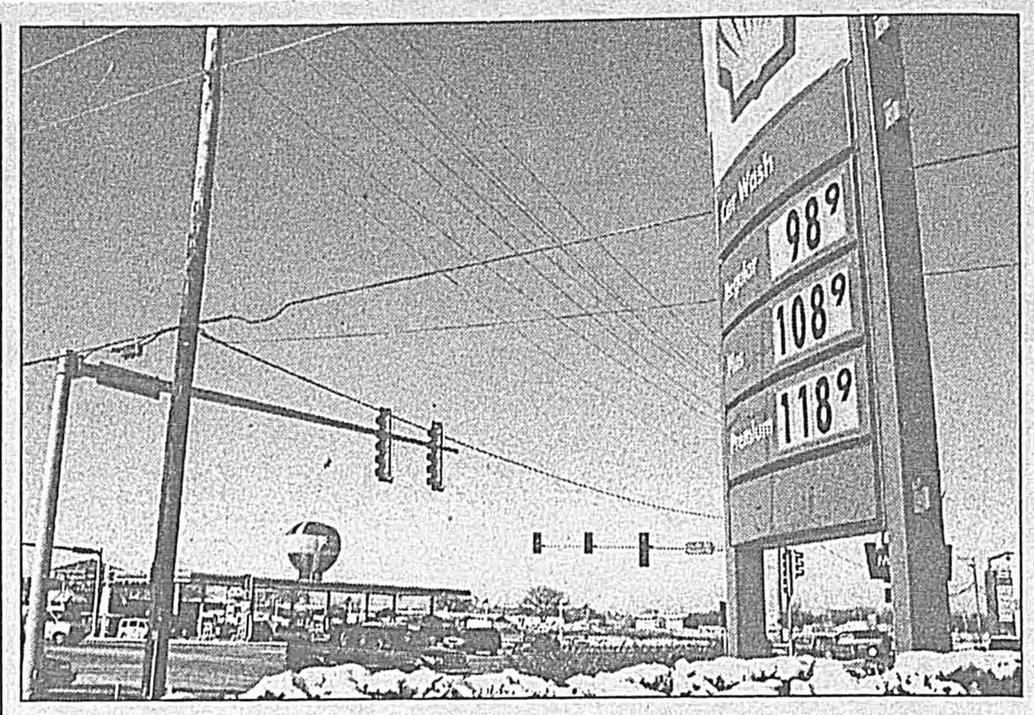

"We are extremely grateful to the Baxter Foundation for their support of this program," said Judy H. Fried, Nicasa's executive director. "Baxter has had a longtime partnership with our agency in improving access to health care and in the agency's mission to promote healthy lifestyles and treat and prevent substance abuse."

Fried said the Baxter Foundation's grant will enable the Women and Children's Center to reach a traditionally under-served population. Many of the clients are women who live in poverty in Zion, North Chicago and Zion.

Patricia Morgan, director of the Baxter International Foundation, presented the grant at the agency's recent annual meeting of Nicasa's Board of Directors at the Harrison Conference Center, Lake Bluff. At the 35th anniversary appreciation dinner that followed, Nicasa presented its annual corporate award to Baxter.

Fried said that Nicasa has its Round Lake headquarters facility as a result of Baxter's donation of seven acres of land. She said Baxter continues to provide the security for Nicasa's headquarters. For more than 14 years, senior level Baxter executives have served as members of Nicasa's Board of Directors.

Fried said Baxter has served as a site for Nicasa's Parent Project, which has been given national prominence as a result of corporate endorsement. She also commended Baxter for its support of Nicasa's Women and Children's program and helping support the expansion of evening services.

CLC NOTES

Auditions set

The theatre department at the College of Lake County will hold auditions at 7 p.m., Jan. 28 and 29 for the spring production of "The Three Musketeers." Auditions will be held in the Studio Theatre on the Grayslake Campus.

Adapted by David Ruckman from the novel by Alexandre Dumas, "The Three Musketeers" is a swashbuckling epic that will be presented in two parts. The first part, "The Call to Adventure," will be performed April 12, 18, 19, 20, 25 and 27. The second part, "Milady de Winter," will be performed April 13, 19, 20, 26 and 27. The CLC production is directed by faculty members Eibhlin Glennon and Thomas B. Mitchell.

auditions are open to both CLC students and community residents. For more information, call 847-543-2567 or 847-543-2967.

Cajun cooking class celebrates Mardi Gras

You can serve up some authentic New Orleans-style dishes to celebrate Mardi Gras this year by attending a "Mardi Gras Cooking" class (COOK 25-301) offered by the College of Lake County. The class will be held from 6:30-9 p.m., Jan. 29 at Grayslake High School.

Executive chef Richard I. Cotton will demonstrate several Creole, Cajun, New Orleans barbecue and the popular Po' Boy sandwich preparations. The cost is $29, plus a $15 ingredient fee, which is payable to the instructor.

To register by phone, dial 847-223-1111. For more information, contact the continuing education office at 847-543-2706.

Nail technology program

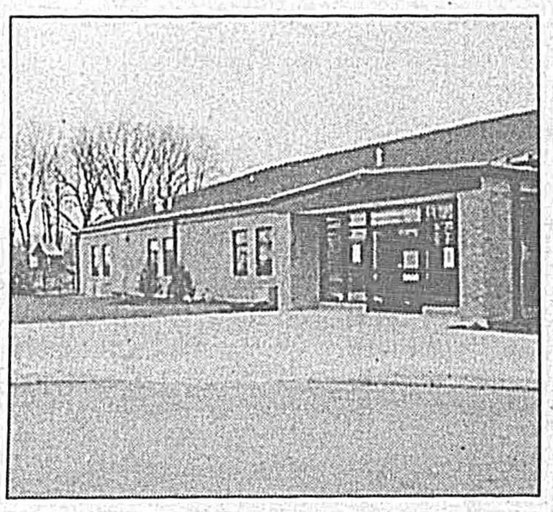

The nail technology course at the College of Lake County provides students with the skills they need for immediate employment. In just 16 weeks, students can complete all the state-required courses and the internship to take the state licensing examination and become nail technicians. CLC's program is the only state-licensed program available in Lake County.

The spring training session will begin Jan. 23 at the Lakeshore Campus in Waukegan. Classes will meet from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Course content will include acrylic, gel and fiberglass techniques; manicure and pedicure techniques; anatomy and diseases of the hand and foot; and the basics of salon management.

To qualify for admission, students must be 18 years of age or older; speak, read and write English at the eighth-grade level; and have a high diploma or GED or pass a reading test.

The cost of the program is $1,155, plus books and a kit fee of $450, payable in the first week of class. Payments may be made in three installments. For information and registration, call program coordinator Paula Bettasso at 847-543-2749.

Eye-catching poster created to build voter registration

As part of the "Show Your Patriotism - Register to Vote" project initiated by Lake County Clerk Willard Helander, six registered voters from Lake County were interviewed and photographed to create a collage-type poster.

Helander thought of the idea for the poster, to convey the importance of voting and also reflect the diversity of voters in Lake County. Various registered voters in Lake County were asked to share their thoughts on voting, and submit to a photograph.

"The viewer can gaze into the eyes of our model voters and have a more complete sense of the meaning behind their words. Their sentiments convey the importance of being an active participant in the American voting system, and the privilege it is as, an American, to live in a democracy," Helander said.

The "stars" on the poster are Lyle Q. Foster, Karen Ukena, Anna Victoria Pabellón, Jose Juan Chavez, Anne O'Connell, and Zoran J. Bobic. The poster was created in-house at the County Clerk's office, and photographer Mary Carmody, who works for Lake County, took photographs of the participants.

Helander said she met Pabellón at a county function in October. A news reporter provided the name of Lyle Foster and he agreed to participate. Karen Ukena, wife of former Lake County Democratic chairman Jay Ukena, was another obvious choice with her Asian ancestry. Jose Juan Chavez is an election judge and was proud to participate, said Helander.

"And Anne O'Connell used to work for the county and she has that Nordic look," said Helander, "and she agreed also.

Copies of the poster are available through the County Clerks' office, and any group or local organization interested in receiving and displaying a copy of the poster should contact the office at (847)377-2312.

Lakeland scholarship winner juggles school, family, dreams

Danielle Langford isn't your typical "college kid."

Langford, 31, the recipient of this year's M.R. Schroeder/Lakeland Newspaper Journalism Scholarship, is a student at the College of Lake County in Grayslake, a wife to husband Nolan, mother to son Christian, 3, and a budding journalist taking classes in mass media at Columbia College in Chicago.

The scholarship pays for a semester's tuition and books.

Langford , a Michigan native living in Buffalo Grove, said "I will be using the scholarship to finish up here at CLC and get my associate's degree, and then transfer to Columbia to continue my education." She intends to get a bachelor's degree in broadcast communication.

Langford is not waiting until she has her degrees to test her skills in the real world of journalism. She worked for one of the largest cable television outlets in the U.S., Barden Cable Vision, while interning at the Specs Howard Broadcast School of Arts, in Southfield, Mich. She graduated first in her class at Specs Howard.

And at Specs Howard, said Langford, she wasn't just sitting in front of a television monitor. "I got the opportunity to learn from being on the air, and I did editing, splicing and even pulled come cable."

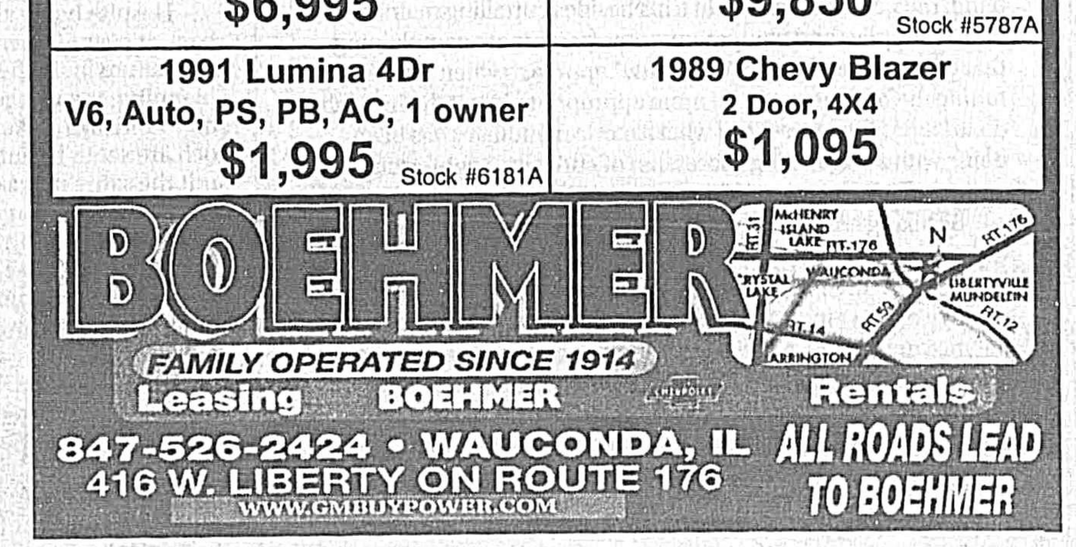

As a writer, her work has been published in various media, including Black Enterprise Magazine. "When I write, I like to get a message across," she said. "I was happy with a piece I wrote about avoiding mortgage scams, for people involved in the mortgage application process."

Asked if either writing or broadcast journalism appeals to her more, she replied, "It's hard to say. I enjoy both equally. It's interesting to write about topics of interest, and I also enjoy being on camera."

One of her CLC professors, Richard E. Soller, observed that Langford "was a student in my Interviewing Practices class, and in that ... she demonstrated a number of characteristics essential for success in school, in work and in her personal life. ... She has demonstrated an exceptional ability to think on her feet and express her ideas logically, fluently and energetically."

Langford, with a ready smile and thoughtful consideration of questions asked her, admits to being a "people person. I am very much so. I love to talk and ask questions and be engaged in conversation with people. I believe you can learn something from everybody, from a poor person in the street, as well as someone who is highly educated."

Langford said her role as an African American in the media is very important to her. "We do need a voice and representation in the media. It's not as bad as it was in the past, because now when you turn on the television, you're just as likely to see an African American giving you the news, as well as a Caucasian male.

Strategies needed to find teachers

One of seven candidates for governor, four Democrats and three Republicans, is uniquely qualified to address a predicted teacher shortage in Illinois. Democrat Paul Vallas, formerly CEO of Chicago Public Schools, is quoting Illinois State Board of Education figures that Illinois will need to hire 55,000 teachers and 3,500 administrators in the next four years.

Not so surprising, candidate Vallas has a plan to improve pay, reduce class size and enhance professional development training. Frankly, we're more interested in teacher shortage solutions than what the candidates have to say about their opinion on gun control, solving transportation snarls and their stand on women's choice. So it's good to hear a candidate speak out on a subject that touches so many lives.

In Lake County, because of generally better salary schedules, the projected shortage probably won't be felt in early stages, but eventually we'll be impacted. About half of the county's districts are vulnerable because of mid-level or below median pay schedules in suburban areas.

Vallas wants to start an Illinois Teachers' Corps to grant tuition assistance to students attending state schools who agree to teach in under served urban and rural areas. The Illinois Farm Bureau successfully recruited medical students some years ago who committed to serving in rural communities upon receiving their MD's. Doubtlessly, the tuition assistance plan would work well for future teachers.

Compounding the problem is the projected retirement of 21,300 teachers by 2004. Because of the high flying economy of the past decade, undergraduate enrollment in educator preparation has been dropping. The current soft job market in the private sector is helping to encourage young people to take up careers in public education, but this factor will take four or five years to have a positive effect on the teacher shortage.

We agree with Vallas that steps should be taken to make the teaching profession more attractive to high school students. Jaded unionists don't help the image of teachers. Another major step needed is implementing alternative certification programs to spur the recruitment of people with expertise in critical need areas like special education, science and math.

Vallas is right in calling for state level strategies to add to the ranks of the teaching profession. Illinois' new governor, whomever the voters elect in November, should be leading the way.

'Chain saw' vote wakes up district

At the risk of being criticized like so many public bodies for foot-dragging when adversity looms, members of the Antioch High School board of education adopted what they call a "crisis plan" for financial management fully four years before district finances fall out of balance due to the opening of a second campus.

Because the crisis plan involves elimination of all sports, band, music, drama and field trips besides curtailing maintenance, supplies and equipment, some parents are complaining that officials are taking a "chain saw" approach when fine tuning the budget would be more appropriate. What the Antioch board did is the opposite of what American industry has been doing with an agonizing succession of cutbacks, "right-sizing" and layoffs during a recessionary period.

By taking crisis action at an unprecedented morning meeting with parents and the full student body in attendance, in reality board members made a pre-emptive strike to secure passage of a 28¢ increase in the educational tax rate. Needed to balance the budget. Officials are acting early to allow for up to three more referenda attempts before the red ink starts flowing.

Early adoption of a crisis plan allows for time to develop further options despite the air for urgency. No "Motorola mentality" in Antioch. A wake-up call has been sounded.

Job sharing plans key political debate

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

It's been a long time since anyone has suggested that representing a legislative district in Springfield is a part-time job—academics, press, taxpayers, policy works-much less office holders themselves.

Quite the opposite, in fact. The typical state senator or representative reminds us often how hard they work on behalf of the citizens. For modest pay, by the way.

Is Eddie Sullivan walking into the eye of a hurricane by suggesting holding office as a state representative constitutes part-time work?

Sullivan, in his third term as assessor of Fremont Township, and Mayor Marilyn Sindles are contesting for the Republican nomination for state representative from the newly drawn 51st District which includes Fremont (Mundelein), Ela Township (Lake Zurich) and Libertyville Township west of St. Mary's Road.

The 33-year-old assessing professional quickly assures that he isn't committing political hara-kiri. Just being practical. Both Sullivan and Sindles are campaigning on a "job sharing" platform, meaning they will keep their present elective posts (perfectly legal) if nominated and elected in November.

A bit of historical perspective: General Assembly offices were considered part-time in practice until annual sessions were adopted 30 years ago. Once they were required to attend annual sessions, the politicos quickly pushed for commensurate pay increases. There is no prohibition against legislators receiving non-political income (law office, farming, retailing, medical, etc.) as long as there is no conflict of interest.

Since both candidates profess to keep their current elective posts, the question of double-dipping, so near and dear to the hearts of media mavens, isn't likely to come up.

Sullivan looks on public service as a combined state representative-assessor as complimentary. He points out that the General Assembly is in session from January through May. The bulk of the assessor's work begins July 1 and runs until assessing records are turned over to the supervisor of assessments sometime in the fall.

"Both jobs would provide full-time work. The combination would work out well," remarked Sullivan, who has announced he will not draw assessor's pay while attending General Assembly sessions if elected. Fremont Township pays its assessor $55,000 per year. Despite his youth, the University of Illinois graduate is respected by his peers and was re-elected president of the Lake County Assessors Assn.

Although she is not required to do so, Mayor Sindles maintains daily office hours. If she is nominated and elected, council sessions could easily be scheduled to accommodate the mayor.

The Sindles-Sullivan clash in the primary opens up debate on the subject of whether legislating is a full-time job. Maybe Sindles and Sullivan are on to something.

COMMENTARY

Modern zoning laws serve people poorly

By Ed Fuhrmann

Synopsis: Views questions "quick and easy" option of subdivisions versus traditional neighborhood design.

Despite being able to look back at over 50 years of continuous failure in the field of suburban planning, the village governments of Round lake, Lake Villa and Antioch are set to intentionally commit the same mistakes again.

Each one is bargaining for, or closing the deal, on one or more subdivisions. These are almost always seen as winning propositions, as there is always a need for housing, and more residents increase the tax base. But is housing the only need of the residents, and raising revenue the only responsibility of village officials?

Here's a brief review—in subdivisions, you can't (as a rule) walk to a neighborhood: restaurant, store, theatre, library, post office (or annex), church/synagogue, village office, hardware store, ice-cream parlor, pharmacy, school, or any of the other places needed for good civic life to flourish. As a rule, you have to drive. EVERYWHERE.

Why? Subdivisions are not meant to be neighborhoods. A good neighborhood which inspires a sense of "community," a sense of "place" has qualities that are abundant and readily visible in so many of the small towns which draw new residents in the first place: integrated residential, commercial establishments and "civic space" which is accessible and desirable. Walkable destinations for the residents. A mix of housing options, especially small-size low-cost for students, elders, those starting up, and those starting over (folks without cars, who need a walk-able community).

Look at the vitality and draw of downtown Antioch. If you tried to build it again, you wouldn't be allowed. Why? Zoning. A new set of rules which presumes that all the elements of "neighborhood" still work when they're separated and isolated from each other. Unfortunately they don't, and most village officials don't realize just how poorly "modern" zoning serves residents. Good news, folks. We can change the zoning rules.

Let's not gradually turn Lake County into a mirror of the western Chicago suburbs. Let's build what we want: community. A place where we want to live, not just a place we'll settle for. It'll take a bit more planning, and communication between residents, developers, and village/county officials, but it can be done.

PARTY LINES

'Third-man Theme' airing for GOP chief

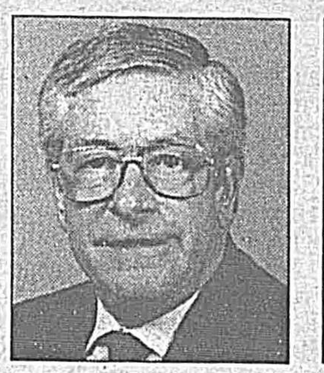

Bob Neal, Lake County Republican chairman in the 1980s and later a county board member, is sending signals that he'd like his party job back again.

Despite being out of elective office, Neal has remained active in party affairs, including the Republican Federation. He also serves as president of the 8th District Republican Club, a sounding board and fund raising arm for Congressman Phil Crane.

Republicans and Democrats will elect party officers at conventions in April following the March 19 primary. Officers serve two year terms.

During his years as Republican chairman, Neal presented a feisty image, often at odds with various elements of his own party. Neal conducted party affairs in a highly partisan style. There have been complaints that lack of a combative approach has contributed to Democratic gains in the last four election cycles.

If Neal is serious, he'll face competition from Waukegan Attorney Steven Simonian and Green Oaks Mayor Tom Adams, who are announced candidates and seeking backing among precinct committeemen.

Bob Neal: Saddling up to return as GOP chairman

Walt Kubalanza: Open for business to sell Lincoln Day tickets

Betty Rae Kaiser: Directing traffic for Wood's county forces

Milt Jensen: Mad at county depts. and environmentalists

'Clean out' county

Beach Park Mayor Milt Jensen openly is campaigning for a "clean house" movement for the Lake County Board. Gruff and outspoken, Jensen is fed up with environmentalists who he says are out to choke off commerce and growth. Jensen also is mad at most of the county's departments.

Don't wait for tickets

Grant Township Assessor Walt Kubalanza is urging Republican faithful to reserve tickets early for the annual Lincoln Day dinner Saturday, Feb. 9. There will be seating for only about 350 persons. House Minority Leader Lee Daniels will be keynote speaker. Kubalanza can reserve tickets by calling him at 847-587-2781.

Charter changes

Lake Forest Ald. Michael Burns is supporting efforts to overhaul the city's unique form of local government dating back to 1861 when the city was organized under a special charter issued by the Illinois General Assembly. Burns sees offices like marshal, supervisor, treasurer and collector as outmoded. The charter provides for a caucus system where mayoral candidates are elected for one-year terms. Mayor Howard Kerr formed a study committee to recommend changes. One of the members is Democratic State Rep. Susan Garrett.

Wood rally

"Team Corinne," backers of Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood for the Republican nomination for governor, have arranged a morning rally Saturday, Feb. 2, at Country Squire. Beginning at 9 a.m., the event is designed to energize what is regarded as Wood's best organized county. Sixteen mayors have signed on as Wood backers. Betty Rae Kaiser of Wadsworth holds the key post of field committee coordinator. Wood will address the gathering.

Not filed

Friends of Donna Mae Litwiler, former Lake County Board member and a one-time officer of the Lake County Republican State Central Committee, were disappointed that her political comeback fell short. Petitions were in circulation for a ballot position representing District 5 (Grant and Wauconda Townships), but never filed. After leaving elective politics, Litwiler held a field position in the Secretary of State's office specializing in senior citizen affairs.

'Normal Woman Marries Oblong Man'

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

That kinky sounding headline, "Normal Woman Marries Oblong Man," actually did appear in a downstate Illinois newspaper years ago, slipping past an editor who failed to notice the double entendre.

The humorous headline is recalled often among editors and reporters as one of the beloved bloopers of Illinois newspaper history.

As we know, Normal is a city of 45,000 and, as we learn if we look it up, Oblong is a tiny village of 1,600.

We know how Normal got its name. Illinois State University is there and it used to be called Illinois Normal back when teachers colleges were known as "normal schools."

Hap Fleming, a downstate history buff, told us how Oblong was named:

"The burg was called Henpeck, but some folks didn't think that was very dignified so they decided to rename the community after the shape of its boundary, which is oblong."

Randy Harrison, a newspaper reporter who covers the area, said he has heard of the headline and hopes someday he will get the chance to duplicate it should another Normal woman marry another Oblong man. The odds, of course, are slim because the tiny village doesn't have a huge supply of eligible bachelors.

I was reminded of the Oblong story when I came across a book about curiously-named towns, by author Kathy Kemp, "Welcome to Lickskillet and other Crazy Places."

One of the chapters is titled, "See You in Hell."

"Hell, Michigan, that is. If you've always wanted to see Hell freeze over, visit this place in winter.

"In summer, when temperatures are moderate, the town has a Satan's Holidays festival and a footrace called Run to Hell.

"The town got its name in 1841 when George Reeves, an early settler, was asked what he thought the place should be named. 'I don't care,' Reeves said. 'You can name it Hell if you want to."

Among the places with odd names mentioned in Kathy Kemp's book is Joe, Montana. It was known as Ismay until 1993 when the sports-minded citizens, all 22 of them, voted to rename their crossroads after the famous quarterback. And a new industry was born; in fact, money raised from selling Joe Montana souvenirs enabled the town to build a new fire station.

Another community cashing in on someone else's popularity is Santa Claus, Ind. Although southern Indiana is a long sleigh trip from the North Pole, folks down there have created a Santa theme community and claim the Jolly Old Elf spends his summers there, staying at Santa's Lodge and Resort.

Each Christmas, the post office receives thousands of letters addressed to Santa Claus, and people who don't live too far away drive in with their outgoing cards and gifts to have them postmarked from Santa Claus.

Other places with quizzical names include Dull, Tenn.; Ordinary, Ky.; and Tightwad, Mo.

England is our equal when it comes to having fun with names. In the county of Kent, Ham and Sandwich are neighboring towns and Rye is just down the road.

In Hertford County, a local newspaper announced the marriage of two people from nearby villages with the unfortunate headline: "Nasty Man Marries Ugley Woman."

She might have been better off with an Oblong man.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Smaller not better

The arguments for having two fully separate high schools at first had been convincing to many, but as time passes certain issues are now manifestly more compelling than others. The most compelling issue is: people in Antioch do not really want to pay for a school their children will not attend. "They" get the new "we" get the old. Every other argument is one-tenth the weight of this one, and there are many arguments for two related schools instead.

In thinking the situation over again, it would seem that two full schools will dilute the overall talent pools of both teachers and students and fixed costs in key ways.

First, the more students and teachers per grade the less cost per student for fixed purchases like computers and other grade specific materials. The more students the more teachers per subject and the more subjects one might offer. We compromise our education diversity options with smaller headcounts per grade.

Second, the more students means better performance in athletics and the arts. People may not want to admit it, but the two school approach will result in far less competitive teams for both schools, a far less robust music program and student councils comprised of interested students but not necessarily the most talented. The counter argument that other students would be left out is incorrect. The ability to sustain two or more teams exists anyway. Indeed this approach makes it feasible to sustain more teams.

The students would be encouraged to strive for excellence to make the "A" teams, something our current education system is set up to compromise these days. We applaud merely attempting and we settle for mediocrity too often, downplaying the need to really strive to be a winner, not merely a participant.

I think the two full school approach should be reconsidered immediately. All other arguments pale before the "my kid won't benefit from that new school" mentality. A last consideration, two full schools will simply split the local communities while sharing two schools would retain the need to work and live and root for our kids together.

Service meltdown

The proposed $224 million settlement to credit Illinois phone customers would not come close to solving the bigger problem that stems from SBC Communications Inc.'s merger with Ameritech. Rebates that average $50 per phone line do not outweigh the serious negative impact that the merger has had on Illinois consumers and businesses.

After the 1999 merger of Texas-based SBC Communications Inc. with Ameritech, Illinois suffered the worst service meltdown in its history. SBC/Ameritech also failed to adequately invest in its infrastructure as a way to boost profits, which outpaced industry peers throughout the 1990s.

A one-time refund is no substitute for SBC/Ameritech's terrible service and anti-competitive business practices. SBC/Ameritech continues to block competition by not allowing competitors adequate access to its network, as mandated by state and federal law. In addition, the Texas-based giant controls more than 90 percent of the local phone market. As a result, many competing phone companies have gone out of business, denying Illinois consumers choice in local phone providers.

Heart of process

Thank you to the many individuals and organizations which partnered with the Lake County Clerk's office to successfully promote and provide voter registration throughout the county. Our goal to help each Lake County citizen be prepared to exercise their fundamental right— voting —was overwhelmingly met, in large measure because so many volunteered to help.

The original plan was to train registrars and to conduct special registration events during November, 2001. Because of the enthusiastic response from the hundreds of participants, registration events are continuing until the close of registration on Feb. 19 and will resume in the spring and the summer of 2002.

We trained more than 300 new deputy registrars, and a great deal of thanks goes to our election judges representing the two major political parties, who were the largest single source for newly trained registrars. Voter registration opportunities have been held at community centers, grocery stores, corporations, colleges, libraries, high schools, churches and temples, and special events.

Special thanks also goes to the voters who are featured on our "Lake County Voters Speak" poster which reflects the diversity of our county. The poster includes photographs of six county residents accompanied by their quotes on the importance of exercising the right —and privilege —of voting. The popular posters are available by calling 847-377-2313 or by e-mail at VoterRegistration@co.lake.il.us

I agree with Lyle Foster of Gurnee who is quoted on our poster, "As an American, voting is more important now than ever, so show your Stars and Stripes-vote." Thank you Lake County registrars. You are at the heart of the electoral process.

Willard R. Helander

Not involved

When I read that I was a member of a "veteran political troika," the members of which were "pooling their resources" for the purposes of "leveraging experience, self interest and settling old scores to gain control of the county GOP apparatus," I was struck by your fixation in beating the proverbial dead horse. Your editorial and alleged reporting which regularly prefaces comments about someone by adjectives such as "independent" or "regular" Republican or as being "pro-development" or for "controlled growth automatically and, of course, intentionally creates a prejudice for or against that person described.

Since your editorial refers to this alleged "troika" as fact rather than opinion, perhaps you can tell me what "self interest" I have in control of the GOP apparatus? I am none of the following: office holder, party committeeman, candidate for office, or party official. Furthermore, You should and probably do know that the overwhelming majority of money and effort expended by that apparatus (including financial) is directed toward the elections of state and federal offices—not the county board.

5 tips for choosing the best dietary supplements

Americans have become increasingly health conscious over the past decade, and there is more widespread understanding of the connection between good health and diet. And yet, this knowledge has not translated into healthier eating habits. By some estimates, 90 percent of us are not getting the vitamins and minerals we need on a regular basis.

"We are a time-starved society," points out Jeff Zwiefel, an exercise physiologist with Life Time Fitness. "People generally don't take the time to plan meals or do the shopping and cooking that's necessary to eat healthfully. We don't eat enough fruits and vegetables and don't get the anti-oxidants we should have in our diets."

There are many factors contributing to our lack of proper nutrition, Zwiefel says. Environmental factors such as pollution, preservatives in prepared foods, and poor soil quality as fields are over-farmed and over-fertilized all have contributed to a lack of proper nutrients. Lifestyle factors such as increased stress, excessive use of alcohol or tobacco products, lack of exercise and over-use of preserved, prepared foods as opposed to whole, unprocessed foods also have contributed to the problem.

Apparently, a lot of us realize what we're lacking, Zwiefel says, since some 56 percent of adults use vitamins and supplements on a daily basis to make sure we're getting the nutrients we need. But Zwiefel cautions that supplements should not replace the vitamins and minerals found in whole foods.

"Supplements are meant to augment a diet, not replace healthy eating and exercise habits," he says.

But for those who decide to use supplements, Zwiefel cautions that the quality and effectiveness can vary widely, and consumers would do well to educate themselves before adding one or more to their diet.

Zwiefel says there are five key things people should look for when they begin researching and shopping for dietary supplements.

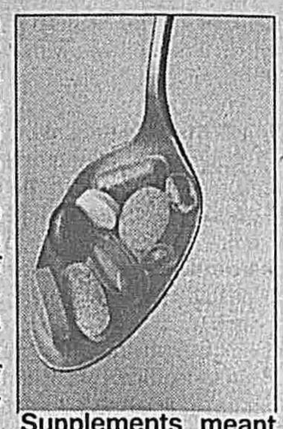

• Look for a product that has a gender-specific formulation. "The more we learn about nutrition, the more obvious it becomes that men and women have different needs. A good supplement will have different formulations to meet those needs," Zwiefel says.

• Look for a supplement that has morning and evening formulations. "Our bodies don't need or use nutrients all at once," he says. "We need different vitamins and minerals to help us gear up and get through the day, and others to help our bodies repair themselves at night. And some nutrients counteract each other and shouldn't be taken at the same time," Zwiefel says.

• Read the label to make sure the formulation has been independently tested and analyzed. Supplements should be tested for potency and potential toxicity and backed up with the best research and science available. A good manufacturing source is a key element in ensuring quality.

• Buy supplements in capsule form rather than tablets. "Tablets may be cheaper to manufacture than capsules, but capsules are better because they don't include as much filler and the nutrients can be more efficiently absorbed into the body," Zwiefel says.

• Finally, look for chelated minerals when reading a supplement's label. Chelation is a process that binds fatty acids or amino acids to a mineral, which aids absorption into the body, Zwiefel says.

Supplements meant to augment, not replace, healthy diet

Life Time Fitness formed a team consisting of Zwiefel, a biochemist and a dietitian to develop its own line of high-quality dietary supplements. Two lines -- the Elite Multi Vitamin and the Peak Performance Multi Vitamin -- come in gender-specific formulations and are manufactured according to strict standards set by Life Time Fitness. But Zwiefel stresses that these supplements are only one element of the holistic fitness concept Life Time Fitness emphasizes.

"We provide our members education about how the body works: body mechanics, metabolism, motivation and behavioral change," Zwiefel says. "We also promote fitness, using both aerobic activity and strength training; and finally, we provide information on diet and nutrition, including supplementation when needed."

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Hi Dr. Singer,

We have a 4 year old boy with a rather interesting problem. He cannot seem to keep his fingers out of his nose. He loves to pick and pick and pick We have tried all kinds of remedies we have read about and heard from others. Do you have any thoughts on it? We hope you'll call this column, "Pick a Winner!" L.L.

Hi L.L.,

Thanks for the title! Yes I do have some thoughts. First, even though to you and I and other adults, it may seem like a gross thing, you have to keep in mind that this little person is fascinated by all the intricacies of his body, including but not limited to his nostrils! Whether this is a problem or not will remain to be seen.

The first thing that I would be concerned with is whether you have had this child's nose looked at by a medical doctor. It is possible that the child scratched it and has continued to go back to it because it is feeling bad or is infected. He may keep opening it up which can cause him to keep going back to it. I've seen that many times before. So, first, get him checked by the M.D. If the M.D. rules out anything physical, and you really need this child to stop doing this, you will need to do some behavior training with the child. Again, like I always say, to completely deal with any problem correctly, behavior training needs to be handled in the office with a professional and not in a column.

If not medical, this is a behavior like any other behavior. At 4 years old, most kids are pretty verbal and do understand verbal directions (even if they have selective hearing and don't want to listen all the time.) Behavioral training usually involves rewards for the behavior you want to see and deterrents for the behavior you don't want to see. Now, what constitutes rewards and deterrents or punishments will need to be decided personally, either by you and your spouse, or by you, your spouse and therapist. If you do this, keep it appropriate. Don't go overboard. I will say that I don't think that it is a catastrophic type of problem and if you calmly let your child know, repeatedly over a period of time, that you don't accept it and divert the child's attention to something better, he will more than likely stop. If you make a huge deal out of it and give the child a lot of attention for that behavior every time it is happening, it probably will not stop happening. You may actually be feeding more into it by overreacting than by leaving it be.

I have a great story for you that will make you laugh and also make you feel better about the problem at hand. It will make you feel better because no one could top the level of embarrassment that this one caused! When I was about 7 years old, my sister was 5 and we all went to WGN to see "Bozo's Circus." We were so excited to see this show. We waited in line and finally got to our seats. When we were all settled, my 5-year-old sister went to work on something that she had practiced and honed into a skill to behold. She would suck her thumb, but in a way you have probably never experienced. She had long hair and would take a strand of hair from each side of her head and stick it up the corresponding nostril on that side, while sucking her thumb. So, to look at her from the front, she looked like a 5-year-old girl with a moustache. Well, my parents had been trying to stop her from doing this for a while, but for some reason, it was very enjoyable to her. After my sister had been sitting at the Bozo show doing this for a while, my mother glanced over and noticed that a cameraman had noticed my sister and thought it was the cutest thing he had ever seen and zoomed the camera in on my family and my sister. Some of my parents' friends were aware that we were there that day and later told us that they had never had such a laugh in their lives before that. Needless to say, the next day, my sister's hair was cut short. Unfortunately, since we were the family that did everything together, I also had to get mine cut short too! How unfair! Hope this story helps you put things in perspective!

A tomato a day keeps the oncologist away.

That may not be entirely true but it is true that tomatoes, along with many other foods, have been proven to have cancer fighting properties.

In fact, studies have shown that just five servings of fruits and vegetables daily can prevent as much as 20 percent of all cancers. The cancer fighting benefits of proper nutrition apply to those who have been diagnosed and treated for cancer as well.

But keeping proper nutritional habits can be very complicated, especially when challenged with the rigors of traditional cancer treatment. If you add in complications from an unhealthy liver, renal system, or diabetes, the proper roadmap for nutrition gets even a little more gray.

That is why consulting a nutritionist can be just what the doctor ordered. Your one-hour consultation is a phone call away. Kim Dalzell, PhD, RD, LD, is an oncology nutritionist with over a decade of experience in the cancer treatment field. She is the program director for holistic nutrition services at Cancer Resource center in Gurnee.

PREP HOOPS ROUNDUP

Girls

Vernon Hills 48, North Chicago 32

A double-double and a near double-double from Kim Rymer (22 points, 12 rebounds) and Lauren Horan (15 points, nine rebounds), respectively, led Vernon Hills (8-15, 6-2 NSC Prairie) over North Chicago.

Beth Plucinski (seven points, five rebounds, five assists) and Rachael Blanton (four rebounds) also contributed to the Cougars' cause.

Next game: at Mundelein Jan. 26 at 2:30 p.m.

Vernon Hills 46, Round Lake 36

Being down 17-2 in the first quarter, 27-10 at halftime and 39-20 going into the fourth quarter didn't stop Round Lake from making a game of it as the Panthers went on a 15-4 run to cut the lead to 43-35 with just under two minutes to play. However, it wasn't enough as the Cougars held on for the 10-point win.

Amber Hussain led Round Lake (4-17, 1-5 NSC Prairie) with a game-high 15 points and was the only Panther in double-figures.

Next game: hosts Lake Forest on Jan. 26 at 2:30 p.m.

Grant 34, Wauconda 33

Stephanie Gertz (10 points) and Sara Billings (eight points) led the Bulldogs (3-14, 0-8 NSC Prairie) in the loss.

Next game: hosts Antioch Jan. 24 at 6:00 p.m., at Libertyville Jan. 26 at 2:30 p.m.

Benet 48, Carmel 34

Carmel shot just 11 percent from the field in the second half on the way to its fourth straight loss. Jenny Eckhart (13 points) and Christine Martinson (12 points) made the only significant offensive contributions for the Corsairs (18-6, 2-5 ESCC).

Next game: at Good Counsel Jan. 24 at 6:30 p.m

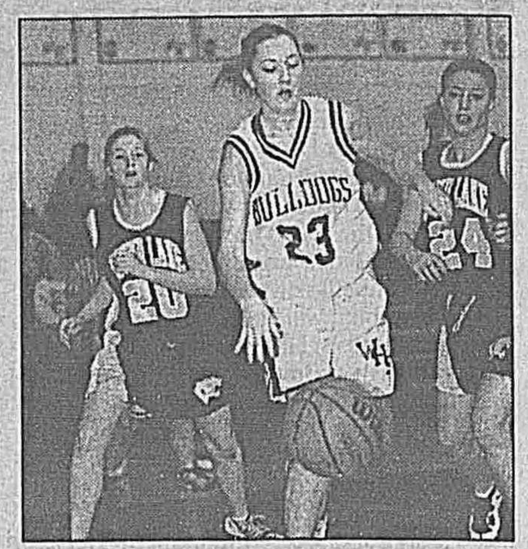

Boys

Cary-Grove 53, Grayslake 50

A game-high 16 points from Adam Zwolfer and 15 points from Devlin McCluskey were not enough to help Grayslake (7-11, 4-6) come back from a 42-30 fourth quarter deficit against Cary-Grove.

Zwolfer did make four baskets late in the game. McCluskey and Derrick Bowers hit crucial shots from behind the arc and the Trojans shot just over 50 percent from the foul line as the Rams cut the lead to 50-48 with just under 30 seconds left.

But Cary-Grove managed to spread the floor and play keep away for the last 30 second to seal the win.

Next game: hosts Woodstock, Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Stevenson 54, Carmel 40

Carmel came back from a 31-21 halftime deficit with an 8-2 run to open the third quarter and cut the lead to 37-33 midway through the third period thanks to two big baskets from Brian Schlemm (team-high 18 points).

However, an 8-2 Patriots run to open up the fourth quarter put the game out of reach for the Corsairs. Sean Walker and Jack Simmons each added eight points for Carmel (9-9).

Next game: at Benet Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Zion-Benton 74, Wauconda 43

Wauconda held an early 3-2 lead over Zion-Benton but that's the only lead the Bulldogs would hold the rest of the game as the Zee-Bees went on a 20-7 run to close out the opening quarter and never looked back.

Brad Breakfield (10 points, five rebounds) was the only Wauconda player in double-figures while Todd Schroeder (seven points), Brian Malone (six points) and Duffy Middlesworth (six points) each had good efforts for the Bulldogs (3-13, 1-5 NSC Prairie).

Next game: hosts North Chicago Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Antioch 48, Waukegan 45

Allen Patin's 16 points led the Sequiots (7-11) over the Bulldogs in this non-conference matchup.

Next game: hosts Libertyville Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m.—Rob Backus contributed to this report

The sixth-grade Warren Jr. Blue Devils finished 1-1 in its first tournament over the weekend. In a 27-16 victory over Wheeling, Taylor Erbach led the way with six points as 10 Jr. Devils hit the scoring column.

Then, in a 36-17 loss to Buffalo Grove, Kegan McDaniel was the top scorer with seven. Mike McCann led the team in rebounds while Brent Saemann led in assists.

The Knights of Columbus sponsored a fifth- and-sixth-grade boy's basketball tournament last week.

Teams from Prince of Peace, St. Bede, St. Gilbert, St. Joseph (Libertyville), St. Mary (Lake Forest), St. Thomas and St. Peter's competed on the fifth-grade level. Congratulations to St. Mary's of Lake Forest, who won captured the title.

In the sixth-grade competition, teams represented hailed from Prince of Peace, St. Anastasia, St. Gilbert, St. Joseph (Libertyville), St. Mary, St. Thomas and St. Peter. Again, St. Mary's of Lake Forest came away with the title.

"Every team played very well," said Diane Mumenthaler, co-director of the athletic program at St. Peter's.

"We enjoyed watching each and every team that participated in the tournament."

Free throw contest

Ten boys and girls in age groups 10-14 were crowned champions at The Knights of Columbus annual free-throw contest over the weekend. The local qualifier, held at Antioch's St. Peter's School Father Hanley Center Gymnasium, was sponsored by Father Alfred J. Henderson, Council No. 3800, St. Peters Parish in Antioch.

Each contestant was allowed 15 free-throw attempts. Ties were settled with successive rounds of five free throws per contestant until a winner was declared.

Amanda Marre took the title in the girls 10-year-old division while John Androus was the boys champ. Kyle Sytsma won the boys 11-year-old division and Natalie Schurdak took the title in the girls division.

In the 12-year-old age group, winners included Kelly Emannelson for the girls and Sean Kelly for the boys.

Elizabeth Schurdak was the champ of the girl's 12-year-old age group while Jimmy Murray took top honors for the boys.

And, in the 14-year-old age group, David Chesonis won the boys title while Kelly Inman won her second consecutive girls title.

All champions reside in Antioch, with the exception of Androus, who lives in Lindenhurst.

Winners now advance to the District level of competition, to be held Feb. 23 at Saint Patrick's in Wadsworth. Registration will be from noon-1 p.m. Competition then begins at 1 p.m.

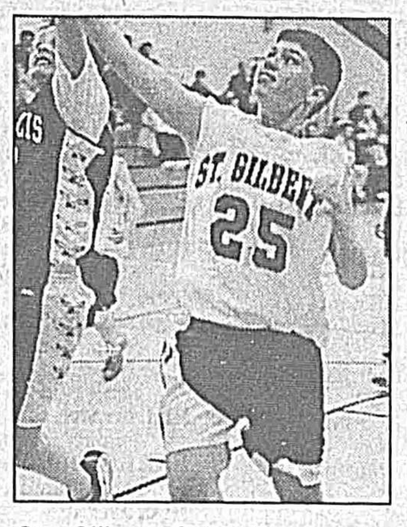

The state competition will be in April in Champaign.

"Our numbers have been down a little over the last few years," said Dave Chesonis, Knights of Columbus financial secretary and the event's chairperson.

"But we were happy to at least one participant in each age group."

The Lake Villa Palombi Lancer seventh-grade boy's basketball team played extremely well in running the table to win first-place at the College of Lake County tournament.

In the first round, the Lancers defeated Carl Sandburg Middle School, 51-36. Sean Hertz poured in 21 points, dished out six assists and collected seven steals and Josh Knaack chipped in 13 to lead the way. Other leaders included Chuckie Kempf (seven points), Will Harrison (four points, 15 rebounds, nine rebounds), Tom Bennecke (four points, four steals) and Tim McGowan (four rebounds).

The Lancers then defeated Deerpath Gold 44-30 behind Harrison's 15 points and 17 rebounds. Hertz complemented him with 14 points, five assists and nine steals while Kempf added eight points and six rebounds. Bennecke also chipped in with six points and five steals.

Palombi secured the title by cruising past Murphy School 38-28 in the finals. Again the Lancers were led by Kempf (16 points), Hertz (14) and Harrison, who dominated the boards with 14. Matt Reimer, Vivek Gollapudi, Devon Hooks, T.J. Siwy, Juan Pickett and Freddie Bier also contributed solid play for the champs throughout the tournament.

Hertz, Kempf and Harrison were named to the All-tournament team while Hertz was selected as the Tournament's Most Valuable Player.

The Lancers, coached by Jason Miller, concluded their season with a sparkling 13-4 record.

Fishing derby Feb. 9-10

This year marks the 42nd anniversary of the Ice Fishing Derby. The event is the longest continuously run winter event in the State of Illinois. This derby and winter festival will be held on Feb. 9-10.

Major sponsors this year include Rinella Beverage (distributors of Budweiser), Robinson Wholesale, Antioch Auto Parts, First National Bank of Antioch, Bass Pro and Rabine & Sons Paving.

There will be kids' games and carnival games, rod and reel and penny raffles as well as other surprises at this year's event. There will also be hourly and overall fishing prizes, food and refreshments, ice shanty contest (at all locations) and much more to fill these special days with good old-fashioned winter fun.

For more information on weather conditions, ice and parking, please call the following locations: Larry and Peggy Paszkiet at L &P Landing, 847-395-4704; Kevin and Shari Kempf at K&S Kempf's, 847-395-2484; or, Mike Harrison at Harrison's Resort, 815-385-0323.

An auction will also be held upon conclusion of the derby on Sun., Feb. 10.

Derby fishing hours are from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Feb. 9 and from 7 a.m.-2 p.m. Feb. 10.

There will be plenty of good food to buy at the Food Trailer.

During Sunday's festivities the Canine Unit from the Lake County Sheriff's Department make an appearance at 1 p.m. with their German shepherds, Grainger and Reiggs. Alex Rothacker from Tops in Dog Training in Grayslake, who has trained these dogs, will be there to demonstrate the dogs' abilities to attack on command, sniff out drugs and many other of their capabilities.

The Kids' Auction, where children 12-and-under can bid on donated items will precede the Adult Auction and main raffle.

This fund-raiser allows them to provide one $500 scholarship to a CLC student and one $500 scholarship to a McHenry Community College student. The event will also continue to educate, preserve and protect the wetlands and open space on the club grounds.

Cats skate past Warriors

The Wildcats varsity hockey team skated to its third consecutive victory with a 7-4 win over the Maine West Warriors. The Cats improved their overall record to 6-4-2 in the Metro Central League.

Libertyville Captain Chris Piecuch scored the first goal and never looked back. Piecuch was assisted by his brother Scott and Kevin Holmberg. The team effort was consistent and unrelenting. Head coach John Lenzi said, "Everyone put a lot of work into this game as we kept the pressure on by a lot of second chances." Kevin Holmberg, who was assisted by Matt Hannan for the second goal as Libertyville took a 2-1 lead after the opening period.

The third period had just begun with a face-off in the Wildcats end as the center pulled it back to defenseman Chris Shaver, who saw Holmberg, a forward, streaking toward the Warriors end. Shavers great pass hit Holmberg as he beat the goalie one-on-one with a quick and accurate shot to make the score was 3-1. The Wildcats were on a roll as Nick Dimitriou scored 30 seconds later with an assist by Holmberg as the period ended with the Libertyville ahead 4-1.

The Warriors weren't about to give up in front of their home crowd as they started the third period with two quick goals to pull within one at 4-3. Holmberg put the Wildcats back on track with an unassisted goal for his hat trick. The Wildcats scoring ended with goals from Chris and Scott Piecuch.

Lake County Chamber of Commerce

The Lake County Chamber of Commerce is one of the areas longest running chambers

Established in 1915, they began as the Waukegan Chamber of Commerce. Later the Chamber added North Chicago and ten years ago they moved to their current home in Gurnee. The organization changed its name to the Lake County Chamber of Commerce soon after.

"The Chamber's task at hand is to preserve its history and rebuild active alliances and continued partnering with the villages of Waukegan and Gurnee," said Katie Spies, executive director. "The Chamber also works very hard to promote and report to its members."

Recently the Chamber has begun open-dialogue meeting between its executive committee and the local mayors and village officials from both Gurnee and Waukegan. "We as a chamber hope to reach the next level by enhancing our relationships with villages and welcoming our new mayors," said Spies. "We look forward to working with both Gurnee and Waukegan."

While the Chamber represents both Gurnee and Waukegan, it also spends much of its time promoting Lake County as a whole. "We speak as an advocate for Lake County," said Spies. "We are not funded by the state, county or any other form of government, only by our members. We speak for them.

"We try to stay active with Illinois and National chambers of commerce and bring that news and information home to Lake County and our members," continued Spies. "We are a pro business advocate voice for all of Lake County and we want to help our members any way we can. We also assist many of the other nineteen Lake County chambers and encourage our members to join their local chambers as well."

Spies hopes to make sure that all chamber events have "cutting edge" programs that relate to current events and legislative issues. The Lake County Chamber is probably best known for its popular Lake County Power Breakfast program. For the past ten years, the first Wednesday of each month draws more than 120 members to Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth, where the chambers presents a well-balanced selection of speakers ranging from congressmen, senators, county board members and even Chicago Bears. The event is usually broadcast to Lake County on a local cable system.

New this year to the Lake County Chamber is the Lake County Home Office Management Executives (H.O.M.E.) program. The community outreach program is not limited to members and is open to the public at no charge. "Many people are operating home based businesses and can use a sound board," said Spies. "This new program allows them to ask each other questions, get advise and network with each other."

2001 also welcomed Carol Henderson as the LCCC's new chamber relations coordinator. She has spent the past year compiling a hub of information for the hundreds of monthly calls for Lake County information regarding everything from hotels to government facilities to camping. Henderson is also rebuilding the Chamber's database and e-mail lists, and assisted Spies with the revamping of the newsletter, which includes general Gurnee, Waukegan and Lake County news, in addition to Chamber information.

Also new is the new member orientation program that was introduced to help new members become acquainted with all the programs and networking opportunities that the Chamber provides.

Lake County Chamber of Commerce also has four annual events of note, the annual dinner, golf outing, fashion show and mayor's luncheon.

According to Spies this years focus will be spent, among other things, revamping the web site and creating a resource directory and Lake County map. Spies looks forward to furthering the Chamber's relationship with their hometowns and neighboring communities and continuing to inform not only Lake County, but the entire country, about the businesses they represent.

Dear Lake County Businesses and Residents,

I am very thankful and honored to be on board with the Lake County Chamber of Commerce, and have already witnessed the entire Board of Directors donate hours of energy with enthusiasm, and active dedication to the vision and new direction of the chamber.

LCCC has recently welcomed many new members and will continue to increase its membership. LCCC will continue to offer value-added services and an ongoing effort to offer networking programs and marketing benefits for its members.

Lake County Chamber of Commerce currently represents businesses throughout the Lake County region, with members from Milwaukee to Chicago that want to do business in the Lake County area. LCCC is the local community chamber for vicinities of Gurnee and Waukegan, and an advocacy voice for the Lake County region invested by its business members. LCCC looks forward to the continued involvement with the Village of Gurnee and the City of Waukegan, and embraces the active role that which a chamber, city and village government can facilitate. Lake County Chamber recognizes the 19 chambers of commerce within Lake County in every presentation that works effectively within their communities. LCCC strongly supports local businesses to join local chambers and to consider Lake County Chamber as an added resource and marketing investment for your business to join a secondary chamber. As a pro-business advocacy voice LCCC sets priorities to be active with a legislative agenda and build alliances with active involvement of the local chambers, Chicagoland Chamber, Illinois State Chamber and the U.S. Chamber. There are certain issues that have no borders like transportation and legislative affairs. Continuing to share dialogue with these alliances and bring presentation/speakers to Lake County businesses has been well received this past year and will continue to be of great value in the year 2002.

There are many monthly networking functions of the Lake County Chamber such as Business After Hours, Networkers Group, home-based business meetings, Forward Luncheons and Power Breakfast. To view an ongoing calendar of our events, visit www.lakecounty-il.org.

Lake County Chamber resources phone calls, e-mails and assistance daily for walk-in visitors that have questions of the region of Lake County.

I would like to personally thank the members and volunteers that engage themselves with Lake County Chamber. As President, this association has been a very pleasant experience and I look forward to represent this great organization in continuing existence since 1915 that began in Waukegan.

Very Best Regards,

Katie Spies, President

Antioch Chamber of Commerce

To many Antioch-area residents, the highlight of their summer is the annual summer festival hosted by the Antioch Chamber of Commerce.

Despite a few name changes, it is currently titled Antioch's Taste of Summer, the event has always drawn large crowds to downtown Antioch. Last year's attendance was about 20,000.

"We renamed it from Megafest to Taste of Summer last year, while trying to go back to our roots (the event used be called Taste of Antioch)," said Barbara Porch of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce. "People werent quite sure what Megafest meant so we picked a name that better summed up the event. Taste of Summer is just that, it's a family-oriented, four-day event in July that features great food, fantastic entertainment, sidewalk sales and last year we added a carnival."

This year the Chamber plans to give the soapbox derby its own day, in order to couple the popular event with the Fireman's Breakfast and add another family day to the region.

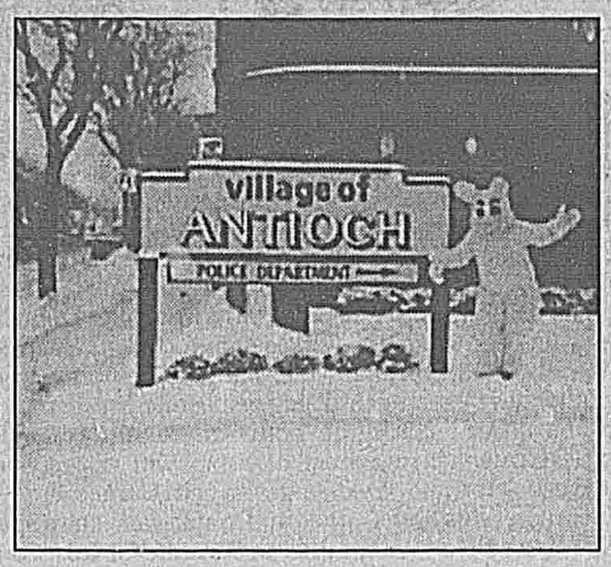

The Chamber has a lot of fun hosting community events. This February, the chamber will be producing The Million Dollar Expo, in which the first 1,000 people that come to the show at Antioch High School will be given a free Lotto ticket. "The hope is that a local resident will win a million dollars," said Porche. The event will also have exhibitor booths that sell all kinds of products and services, as well as an arts and crafts area. A big drawing card will also be NBC and WGN's "Mr. Fix It," who will be on hand between 1-2 p.m. on Feb. 23 to answer the community's questions on home repair.

For years the Chamber has also housed a Santa House in the downtown area. Santa and all his helpers are all Antioch-area volunteers. The four-week event had a huge turnout this year, as more than 3,000 children visited St. Nick and 1,000 photos were generated. "The mood of the country and in particular, our community had a lot to do with the large turnout," said Porch. It again shows how a small community like Antioch can all pull together and help its children.

Adults residents benefit from the Antioch Chamber, as well. Each June and September, the Chamber hosts an arts and crafts fair that draws between 7-10,000 people to the Antioch area. "This event does nothing but help our many craft and antique stores downtown," said Porch. "People go to the show and then spend the day shopping near Main Street."

Local businesses come together ofter as members of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce. January's installation dinner is also very popular, as it is 10% business and 90% fun. The Chamber is also looking to reinstate the monthly luncheon program this year to go along with the monthly merchant morning meetings. "The morning meetings gear more toward the merchants," said Porch. "The luncheons will be open for anyone and we hope to get professionals and service industry members to attend."

Proud of the construction of a large billboard on Route 173 that welcomes people to Antioch, Porch is excited about this year's project in which they will redo the Chamber's web site and create personalized information on each of its members, as well as links to their own sites. The chamber is also proud to have kept the membership costs down to $85 for one more year, remaining one of the most affordable chambers in Lake County.

The Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry looks forward to a challenging year in 2002. The new Board of Directors has outlined an agenda that is both proactive and challenging to benefit our Chamber Membership. New networking opportunities, events and advertising programs have been developed. Here are just a few of the new programs on our 2002 agenda:

* Monthly Membership Luncheons. February 5 will be our first luncheon, which will be held at the Double Eagle in Antioch from 12-1:30 p.m. A tax expert from James Hamlin & Associates will speak about tax issues. Members are encouraged to network with other members from 11:30 a.m.-12 p.m.

• A New Web Site Personalized for 'Each and Every Chamber Member.' The Chamber's new web site is currently under construction. A new feature added this year is the personalization for each member. Each member is encouraged to fax to the Chamber Office a paragraph describing their business. This would appear along with their business name, phone number and address when their business listing was selected. The Chamber will also link the member's own web site to the Chamber's.

• The Chamber Events for 2002 have been streamlined and reconfigured to provide the most effective exposure and benefit to our Chamber Members. Antioch's Taste of Summer will be moved to our new location on Orchard and Skidmore, enabling the Chamber to use the Entertainment Center and to free up much needed parking spaces during the Taste. Both Arts and Craft Faires (June and September) will be allowed to slowly but steadily increase in size. These A/C Faires bring approximately 10,000 consumers to the Antioch area.

• The Chamber's Expo has been renamed the "Million $$ Expo," to be held on a new date this year: February 23 at the Antioch Community High School. The first 1,000 adult consumers to the Expo will receive a free Lotto ticket for their chance to win over a million dollars. Another exciting feature of this year's Million $$ Expo is the special guest star appearance of NBC/WGN's "Mr. Fix-It." Please call the Chamber Office at 847-395-2233 for exhibitor and/or consumer information.

As in past years, the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry is dedicated to providing its Membership the greatest amount of support, exposure and benefits possible. Anyone interested in speaking to a Chamber Director can call the Chamber Office at 847-395-2233 to set up an appointment with a Director. We welcome your input and look forward to working closely with our Membership in 2002.

Fox Lake Area Chamber of Commerce & Industry

Pat Weber is proud to be entering her third year as the president of the Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce.

"Last year, the Fox Lake Chamber revamped its entire web site in order to make the site more user-friendly and a valuable resource tool for the entire Fox Lake area. You can get information on any aspect of the Chamber, as well Chamber members, the town of Fox Lake, our schools, the library and area business," said Weber. "We are pretty excited to see the final product. Never before could someone get all that information all in one place. Its really a nice service to be able to provide our members and the community, saving a lot of people a lot of time."

2001 also saw the production of a new map to the Fox Lake area. "It had been five or six years since the last map was produced and many people were looking for a quality, up-to-date map featuring the new growth and additional roads in Fox Lake," said Weber. "But we took it one step further, adding water levels and depths to area lakes depicted on the map and we also added state parks and the like. Anyone who would like the map can visit the Chamber office near the movie theatre."

Monthly luncheons are also big with the Fox Lake Chamber. Speakers are brought in to lend expert advice to Chamber members. Last year, FLCC hosted a "Meet the Press" breakfast in which each of the local media was invited to come and speak to the members about how to get their messages across to the public at little to no cost through publicity and advertising.

This year, the Chamber's goal is to add even more seminars and mixers than ever before. They would also like to continue to add more signs and banners throughout town promoting its members, which is a difficult task since many of the roads require cooperation from the state. But the chamber is committed to finishing all signage this year.

Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce is hosting a one-day trade fair this March that will bring all sorts of entertainment, booths and vendors to town. The event, which was originated nearly 17 years ago, is open to the public.

For 20 years now, the public has also been invited to the Chamber's Santa Breakfast, which is used as a fundraiser to finance two $500 scholarships that are awarded each year to a senior at Grant High School. "The hope is that the student goes on to get a degree in business and then comes back and helps our Fox Lake community," said Weber. The breakfast is worked entirely by volunteers. The Fox Lake Fire Department makes the food and clean-up is taking care of by the Grant High School National Honor Society.

The holidays also bring the Chamber's Decorate Your Business Contest. Chamber members and nonmembers decorated their offices and storefronts with all money going to area food pantries. "It's just one more way that Fox Lake businesses show their community support and good will," said Weber.

A business is promoted via referrals, anywhere from new residents to the area, vacationers, an unsatisfied customer looking for a reliable business reference, many phone inquiries, walk-in customers and newsletters, just to name a few.

The Fox Lake area has grown and continues to do so. We look to the future and how it will affect our local businesses and we're prepared to help support them any way we can. Our goal for 2002 — to become a stronger community, more balanced, dedicated and united.

Stop by for a visit and see how we can work for you.

GLMV Chamber of Commerce

The Green Oaks, Libertyville, Mundelein, Vernon Hills Chamber of Commerce (GLMV) is one of the largest local chambers in the state of Illinois. With a membership of 750, GLMV is far and away Lake County's biggest chamber.

B. Dwight Houchins, president and CEO of the GLMV Chamber, is proud of what GLMV accomplished last year and looks forward to an even brighter 2002.

Looking for a balance in serving both the businesses he represents and the citizens of the GLMV area, Houchins plans activities throughout the year that is helpful to both groups.

Twice a month, GLMV features a business after-hours program which is hosted by Chamber members. "This is an excellent way for both the buyers and sellers to get together and learn about each other in a relaxed, informal setting," said Houchins. "The program is very popular and well - attended. Everyone is invited to attend a business after-hours."

Each month, GLMV caters to its business members by hosting a business luncheon specifically designed to talk about hot topics that affect local business. "The speakers that we bring in for our members are not there for entertainment value, they talk business," said Houchins. "For an example, our February speaker will inform our members about the upcoming tax law changes and how they will affect them."

GLMV also hosts many expos throughout the year that not only help their members gain exposure, but also educates and entertains the public. The 2001 GLMV Health and Wellness Fair housed more than 60 vendors and had thousands of people from as far away as Cook and McHenry counties coming to take advantage of the free testing done by the vendors. "We insisted that exhibitors must make their booths interactive," said Houchins. "We wanted our residents to leave the expo with a better idea of their health and well-being.

This year, GLMV plans to bring back the health fair and will continue to offer blood pressure, bone density, diabetes and vision screening. "It makes us proud to know that we are providing a countywide service," said Houchins. "One gentleman in his nineties came a long ways to our health fair in order to take a particular test, because he couldnt afford it any other way."

The largest project of the year for GLMV is a project called, "Relay For Life." The event is co-sponsored with the American Cancer Society and is one of the largest fundraising events in the state. Headquartered at the Libertyville High School athletic fields, companies put together teams that camp out at the campus and hear speakers that in the past included both Lt. Governor Corrine Wood and Houchins himself (both cancer survivors). There is also plenty of entertainment and things to buy.

When GLMV took over the project four years ago the event had raised $45,000. Since their involvement the event has raised $250,000, $400,00 and $425,000 in the last three years, respectively. This year the goal is $500,000.

The Chamber also is proud of its Business to Business Expo at the Cuneo estate each fall, as well as the golf outing and other projects that bring together businesses in the GLMV area and the customers they serve.

B. Dwight Houchins

Nestled halfway between Chicago and Milwaukee are the four villages of Green Oaks, Libertyville, Mundelein and Vernon Hills. Among the finest award-winning communities to be found in the country, these villages are represented by the Green Oaks, Libertyville, Mundelein, Vernon Hills Area (GLMV) Chamber of Commerce. As such we are proud to act as the "front door" to these four great communities, each with its own special personality, thus making our area the place to live, work, shop, recreate and raise a family.

Businesses have long recognized that the GLMV area is a perfect place to locate their business. A well-educated and plentiful workforce and a pro-business attitude of local government, combined with a high quality of life makes the GLMV a most desirable place to grow a business – and a family.

The GLMV area is a place where business and the community come together. A good example of this is the GLMV Relay For Life, an annual fundraising event benefiting the American Cancer Society, which has raised over $1.4 million in the past three years. For more information about the GLMV Relay For Life, contact me at dhouchins@glmvchamber.org.

Shopping is plentiful in our area. From large national chains found in Vernon Hills' massive retail complex, to the small shops and boutiques found in the quaint downtown business districts of Mundelein and Libertyville, I invite you to spend an hour or a day exploring the bargains and enjoying our shops.

You will find many interesting restaurants like Mickey Finn's Brewpub, Ristorante Bottaio, Dover Straits, Café Pyrenees, Portofino's, Trattoria Pomigliano and the Gale Street Inn. All are great for lunch or dinner after a day shopping or after visiting some of the many area attractions such as the David Adler Cultural Center and the Cuneo Museum and Gardens.

Come see for yourself why we are very proud of our four great All-American villages with award winning schools. Visit for fun, shopping, or dining. I think you find our four communities to be a great place to visit and an even better place to live!

Grayslake Chamber of Commerce

When asked what recent Chamber event shined the brightest for Shirley Christian, executive director of the Grayslake Chamber of Commerce, she didn't hesitate for a minute.

Grayslake area Chamber of Commerce & Industry
P.O. Box 167 Since 1950
Grayslake, IL 60030

"The new Veterans Memorial," said Christian. Located in downtown Grayslake, the Veterans Memorial in Grayslake Millenium Court was dedicated last year after the Chamber and veterans groups spearheaded an effort to purchase the landmark.

But the Veterans Memorial is not the only thing that the chamber has produced to bring Lake County residents to Grayslake. For the past fifteen years or more, the Grayslake Chamber has held "Grayslake Summer Days" each August. Last years event drew more than 20,000 to Center Street.

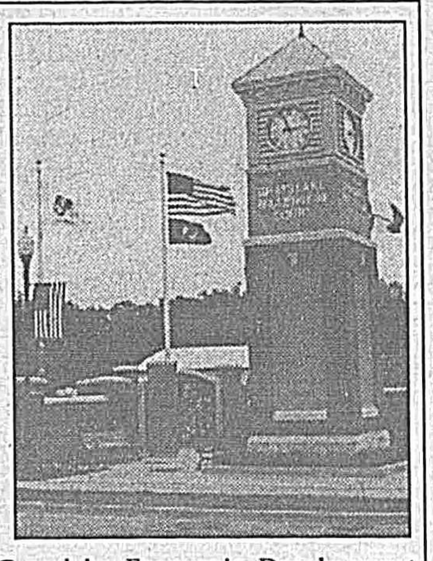

With over a dozen food vendors, 20 business vendors, childrens games and plenty of entertainment, the annual family-oriented event is the Chamber's summer highlight. "There is never any admission charge for Summer Days," said Christian. "Its our gift to the community."

Other summer events sponsored by the Grayslake Chamber of Commerce include the annual 5K Fun Run, the Farmer's Market, the annual golf outing and another popular event, the Art Festival. Encompassing most of Center Street, the June Art Festival brings in artists from not only Lake County, but all over the world and brings thousands of people to downtown Grayslake. "Each year, and I believe this is our eighth, the event gets bigger and bigger. We already are getting calls from artists that are requesting information months in advance. This should be a big year," said Christian.

In addition to the many public events that the Grayslake Chamber produce, much focus is also spent on helping its members with growing their business, as well. The monthly luncheons that the Chamber holds bring hundreds of gatherers. "We try to keep our topics related to the community and our local business interests and that brings in great crowds," said Christian. "Plus, part of it is the food; Pik Wik provides a nice lunch."

Two more ways the Chamber helps both the public and local business are through scholarship and a joint commission on economics with the village. In 1995, the Chamber also established a scholarship fund for a graduating Grayslake High School senior called the Joanne W. Lawrence scholarship. It is awarded to a senior majoring in a business-related field. The Chamber also has a contract with the economic commission of Grayslake and assists in keeping a database, with business assistance and helping with promotions.

This spring the Chamber is looking forward to their annual Networking Breakfast. Christian describes the breakfast as a great opportunity for members to share ideas with other members and also offer ideas to the Chamber.

The Chamber of Commerce provides its member with many benefits and business services. These include joint advertising programs, newsletters, a business referral service, informational membership meetings, a New Resident Welcome Program, seminars targeted to the specific needs of the small business owner and many opportunities for business-to-business networking. The Chamber also plans, organizes and funds community events that are designed to promote the village and the businesses and has done so for over 50 years.

The Chamber of Commerce continues to expand its marketing programs designed to promote specific business districts and to heighten the awareness of this diverse, vibrant business community to the residents of Grayslake. The Chamber works closely with the Grayslake Economic Development Commission to ensure the health of our local business community and attract strong new businesses to the Grayslake area that will complement the existing businesses and serve the needs of the residents of Grayslake.

Among the many community events designed to serve the community and promote the businesses in Grayslake, the Chamber of Commerce sponsors the Arts Festival, the 5K Family Fun Run, the three days Summer Days Festival, Business Trick-or-Treating and the Downtown Tree Lighting Festival; all annual events are brought to the community at no charge to those attending.

The Chamber is very proud of its latest project, the Millennium Veterans Memorial, which was dedicated on Memorial Day, 2001. In 1999, the Grayslake Chamber was looking for a way to mark the 2000 millennium. The Chamber developed a concept for the construction of a clock tower in the downtown area, met with the veterans organizations and combined the two projects into the Millennium Veterans Memorial Project 2000. The Grayslake Millennium Veterans Memorial is an example of a community-wide effort of the local Chamber of Commerce, municipal governments, veterans organizations and businesses who donated professional services, committed to fostering cooperation and support of individuals, organizations and businesses within the community. This cooperation makes Grayslake a community of which we are all proud.

Lindenhurst/Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce

This coming year, for the first time, the Lindenhurst/Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce is proud to be honoring a Lake County resident with the prestigious ATHENA Award. According to LLV Chamber Executive Director Corky Gross, the ATHENA is a nationally recognized award that is new to the Lake County area. The Chamber will be presenting the award at a special dinner in late April.

Candidates for the award will be individuals that actively assist women in realizing their full leadership potential. This can be in the form of mentoring, providing employment or educational opportunities, or any other demonstration of investment in the welfare, professional or otherwise, of women. The Chamber welcomes any questions on potential candidates.

In addition to the ATHENA Award, the Lindenhurst/Lake Villa Chamber hosts numerous additional events for both their members and the public.

Unique to the LLV Chamber is their annual Octoberfest. Last year was the second year for the event and according to Gross the event drew more nearly 400 attendees and produced 40 new members. Serving as the highpoint of their fall membership drive, Chamber members were treated to all sorts of free samples from Lake Villa and Lindenhurst-based restaurants.

Chamber members can also learn about each other and the community through LLVs luncheon and "After Hours" programs. "The luncheons are traditionally very well-attended," said Gross. "We plan the luncheons for every other month and for those that cant attend the luncheons, we have members host after-hours programs, that way everyone has a chance to network no matter what schedule they keep."

The May luncheon plays host to the Chamber's annual Recognition Awards. Each year the LLV Chamber honors police officers, rescue squad members and firefighters. During the Recognition Awards lunch, the Chamber also awards three $1,000 scholarships to area students. "We are working on ways to bring up the amount of scholarship dollars and hope to increase the amount as soon as next year," said Gross.

Lake Villa and Lindenhurst residents also gain a great deal from the Chamber.

Last year the Chamber hosted a Centennial dinner for the village of Lake Villa and assisted in the donation of the new town clock. Fall of 2002 will also see the return of the now annual Family Expo. The well-attended event is free to the public, with last year featuring Ronald McDonald, the Royal Dance Academy, a wild bird and snake demonstration by Jeff Gross and food served by the youth football league. Lindenhurst/Lake Villa Chamber also has a traveling Santa House that makes the rounds across the two villages, bringing Santa to many of the area's neighborhoods.

Message from Chamber President Bill Stanley

Bill Stanley

The Lindenhurst-Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce is a partnership of business and professional people working together to build a healthy economy and to improve the quality of life within the communities.

The Chamber is people...people who realize that through the Chamber they can accomplish collectively what no one can do individually. Since its inception in June of 1986, our Chamber has grown to a working membership of nearly 200 strong... and continues to grow as we speak.

I cannot emphasize how proud I am to be your President and look forward to many successful happenings throughout the coming year.

Bill D. Stanley

Round Lake Area Chamber of Commerce

Few local chambers raise as much money for their annual scholarship fund as the Round Lake Area Chamber of Commerce.

Each year the Chamber hosts a pancake breakfast at Round Lake High School and the proceeds all go toward awarding sixteen college scholarships to area students. According to Liz Evans, executive director for the chamber, last year more than $14,000 was awarded to Round Lake-area college-bound seniors.

The Round Lake Chamber has found an excellent way to stretch their scholarship dollars as far as they will go. Any Chamber member that donates, say, $500, has their money matched by the Chamber and given to the student in the business' name. It's a great way for local businesses and the Chamber to combine their resources and help the children.

This September, the Chamber also welcomed back the circus to the Round Lake area. According to Evans the circus comes to town every couple of years and always draws a big crowd.

Saint Patrick's Day weekend, the Chamber will be hosting their 20th annual Home and Trade Fair at the Round Lake Area Park District. "We are expecting nearly fifty booths this year," said Evans. "Attendance is also high, one year more than 8,000 people attended." The fair features many different sorts of vendors and entertainment.

ROUND LAKE AREA
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE & INDUSTRY

The Round Lake Chamber also hosts many luncheons throughout the year focusing on events affecting area businesses. Five major "get-togethers" are also planned every year to help members network.

New last year was the Family Fun Pig Roast in September. The event featured a band from Memphis, food and free games for the kids. The Chamber played host to the roast at no charge to the public; the only fee was for food and drink. Evans was very happy with the turnout for the first-time event and may consider having another one in the future.

"One of the new things that we did last year was to create a new promotional piece for the Round Lake area," said Evans. "The Round Lake area has so many wonderful things to offer and we wanted to share the positives with not only people moving into the area, but also current residents to remind them of how much the area really has to offer."

Jill A. Gross

The purpose of the Round Lake Area Chamber of Commerce is to develop, promote and protect the manufacturing, commercial, professional, financial, educational and general business interests of the Round Lake area. The Chamber encourages the development of transportation and communication facilities for the area and is an advocate for laws and regulations beneficial to business in general. Your Chamber provides a forum of business interests for the Round Lake area.

Goals specific to the Round Lake Area Chamber of Commerce include promotion of the area business, pride in living in the Round Lake area and commercial and industrial growth to our area. The Chamber strives to preserve free enterprise and enhance the quality of life of the citizens of the Round Lake area.

Our local Chamber members present all types of business, governmental and professional services. The Chamber is run by its members through an elected board of directors. The Board establishes policy, sets annual goals and budgets, and hires the professional staff. The membership of the Chamber is the driving force of everything the Chamber does.

The Chamber provides numerous benefits to both the membership and the community through its efforts. Member business promotion is successfully achieved through referrals, the Chamber's web site, with a full membership listing and direct links to members' sites; a community booklet with a classified membership directory; a home, health and trade fair; numerous "shop local" ad campaigns throughout the year; and a local map. The Chamber hosts informative monthly general membership meetings and several "mixers" for great networking opportunities. The Chamber also provides a member health insurance program.

The residents of the area benefit from the Round Lake Area Chamber of Commerce through its generous scholarship program, which is funded by the Annual Pancake Breakfast with Santa and donations by Chamber members. Any resident or newcomer to the area can stop by the local Chamber office to obtain an area map, general information or a referral to a credible business. Through the efforts of the Chamber and the Villages, we offer some of the best shopping and services in Lake County.

In 2002, we will be celebrating our 55th Anniversary of serving the Round Lake Area with plans to serve for many, many more years. We are proud to live and work and be an integral part of our beautiful community.

Respectfully submitted,
Jill A. Gross
President

Wauconda Chamber of Commerce

Perhaps one the largest events put on by any chamber of commerce in Lake County is the Wauconda Rodeo, sponsored by the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce.

Each year, the three-day event brings thousands of people to the Wauconda area, seeking to see cowboys from all across the nation who come to Lake County and perform breath-taking stunts. This year the rodeo turns 39 years old. Staffed by more than 100 volunteers—mostly Wauconda chamber members—the rodeo is an officially sanctioned event by the Professional Rodeo Association.

According to Bill Findling, executive director of the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce, all money made on the rodeo is put into the general fund, which is then used to present five scholarships to Wauconda area students. Two of the scholarships go to seniors at Wauconda High School and three go to Miss Wauconda contestants.

The pageant, which is down the road from the chamber at the Concord Banquet Hall, is sponsored by the Chamber and is one of the highlights of the year for the Wauconda community. Each year the contest produces a very talented student from the Wauconda area. This year's winner was Kimberly Muilkens. "She teaches piano, sings in the choir, plays in the band, participates in athletics and is a very sharp young lady," said Findling. "We are very proud that she represents us."

This year, the Chamber's new board of directors is looking to grow the organization. Findling's main goal this year is to have a membership drive and expand the Chamber's base by 30 percent.

The new members will join current members in monthly Business After-hours events, which draw together many of the area's business leaders. The Chamber also schedules four or five lunches each year for networking and information on current Wauconda-area activities.

Unlike most chambers, the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce opens it annual golf outing to the public, not just members. "This is a great way for the community to come and meet socially with many business owner and public officials," said Findling.

Miss Wauconda Kimberly Muilkens

The Wauconda Chamber of Commerce has traditionally operated within the framework of a typical small town Chamber with membership meetings and luncheons, mixers, outings and other activities (Miss Wauconda and the Rodeo) and doing these well.

This year with the addition of some new faces and new ideas, we are seeing a change in our direction with more involvement with the future growth of business, residential and commercial areas, in part due to the new Economic Development Task Force.

The traditional functions still hold a firm place in our operation with our big Rodeo scheduled for July 12, 13 and 14, the Golf Outing in early June, the ever-popular Miss Wauconda in August, monthly mixers held at various members' businesses, and periodic business luncheons plus the Street Dance in September to promote the Food Pantry. We also are strong supporters of the WaucondaFest put on by the Wauconda Park District.

The Wauconda Chamber of Commerce is proud of its participation in scholarships offered to seniors and awarded to Miss Wauconda participants.

Lakeland Newspapers is proud to be a supporter of each community's local chamber of commerce.

Many residents do not realize the vast amount of work that their local business leaders do in order to make their towns a better place to live. Between all the festivals, expos and seminars that the chambers sponsor, Lake County business does a great deal for its residents.

If you are a business located in Lake County and you are not yet a member of your local chamber, I highly recommend that you join. The rewards are many.

Feted foreign film series showing at CLC

International film series

Six foreign films will be shown from January through April, during the College of Lake County's spring 2002 International Film Series, sponsored by the International Education program.

All films will be subtitled and shown at 7 p.m. in D100 at the Grayslake Campus. Films have adult content and are not suitable for children. Admission is free and open to the public.

The following is the schedule of movies:

Jan. 25-"Akira" Considered one of the most influential and visually spectacular science fiction films ever made, this Japanese film takes the audience to the streets of a futuristic Tokyo where Punks battle each other and government forces.

Feb. 8-"The Vertical Ray of the Sun" Written and directed by Vietnamese director Tran Anh Hung, "The Vertical Ray of the Sun" follows the romantic travails of three sisters. Kenneth Turan of the Los Angeles Times calls this film "gentle, ravishingly beautiful and awash in everyday sensuality."

March 1-"Ginger Snaps" This Canadian independent horror film manages to combine gore, humor and feminist commentary. The San Francisco Chronicle describes "Ginger Snaps" as an "honest and thoroughly twisted portrait of adolescence."

"'The Color of Paradise" is a transcendent film, deeply committed and beautifully wrought. It will make anyone who sees it look at the world with new eyes'

San Francisco Chronicle

March 15-"The Color of Paradise" From Iranian director Majid Majidi (The Children of Heaven) comes this powerful story of a blind boy and his family. According to Bob Graham of the San Francisco Chronicle, "this is a transcendent film, deeply committed and beautifully wrought. It will make anyone who sees it look at the world with new eyes."

April 5-"The Grand Illusion" This classic directed by Jean Renoir has not lost its power over the years and has been recently released on DVD for the first time. Scott Tobias of the "Onion" calls it "the most humane anti-war film ever made."

April 19-"Time and Tide" This latest effort by Hong Kong action film amateur Tsui Hark marks his return to greatness after a disappointing brush with Hollywood.

According to the San Francisco Chronicle, "this is cinema rendered in split-second pacing and hairpin choreography."

For information about the film series, contact Patrick Gonder at (847) 543-2555.

FOREST PRESERVE DIGEST

Greenbelt Cultural Center Student photography exhibit

Take a look at life in Lake County from a student's perspective in the new photography exhibition, 21st Century Life in Lake County, at the Greenbelt Cultural Center in North Chicago, running through Feb. 27. Admission to the exhibit is free. The public is invited to join with the artists at an opening reception on Thursday, Jan. 10 from 6- 8 p.m. at the Greenbelt Cultural Center.

The millennium photography project resulted from a Lake County Forest Preserves program, funded by a North Suburban Library System Grant for high school students from throughout the county with an interest in photography. Under the leadership of professional photographer Nancy Burgess, the students were provided instruction in technique, matting and framing, and display throughout the fall.

The students were asked to take photos along the themes of environment, community, family, school diversity and patriotism. The result is a fantastic and diverse photo documentation of the many aspects that affect student's lives. The display will tour various libraries in the county later in the year.

Greenbelt Cultural Center is located at 1215 Green Bay Rd., south of Belvidere (Rt. 120), near Waukegan and North Chicago. For additional information call 847-689-1600.

Summer camp signup now open

Learning doesn't stop when school lets out. Sneak some extra "brain time" into your children's scheduled by enrolling them in a summer camp or day program at your Lake County Forest Preserves.

Try on life as a wildlife biologist, a French fur trapper or aspiring actor. A wide variety of summer camps and day programs for children from age 4-14 are available at Forest Preserve locations throughout Lake County.

Programs fill fast, make your reservations as early as possible. Enroll before Feb. 15 and receive a discount on program fees. For program descriptions, dates, times and fees, visit our website at www.co.lake.il.us/forest or call 847-968-3321 to receive a brochure by mail.

CRIME STOPPERS

Crime of the week

Lake County Crime Stoppers and the Zion Police Department are seeking information regarding eight reported robberies.

Police have received eight reports or robberies occurring between Oct. 14 and Dec. 17. All of these incidents have occurred between 5 and 7 p.m.

The offender has been described as: male black-approximately six foot tall, medium build and medium complexion, and possibly wearing a long black jacket (possibly leather).

All of the victims were approached at their residences and had their purses taken from them. several of these victims had just finished conducting business or shopping in the downtown Zion area. A smaller dark colored vehicle has been seen leaving the area in several of these cases.

If you have any information about this crime or any other felony crime or felony fugitive, contact Crime Stoppers at 847-662-2222. Also, abuse of the elderly is a crime, so lets not forget to report this type of crime as well.

If your information leads to an arrest you could be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

Crime Stoppers wants your information—not your name.

Art auction set for June 9

The Art in the Woods auction will be a county wide event held on June 9, from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. in the Hart Woods area of the Round Lake Area Park District.

"The goal of this auction is to raise awareness of the problems with funding of schools in Illinois, and to help schools keep their programs until a funding solution is reached by the state," said Ann Welk, chair of the event.

Anyone interested in donating artwork in any form, or volunteering to help Welk in the very positive and worthwhile cause, can contact Welk at 847-549-9247 or e-mail awelk@wans.net.

The football coach teaches us another great employment lesson

By Scott T. Fleischmann

Last week we learned a lesson from a certain football coach who is now unemployed because of errant information that was listed on his "biographical sketch." The lesson is that we each have responsibility for how our skills and experience are perceived. That is called accuracy, credibility and integrity.

However, the saga of this coach continues. In the past week I saw an interview with the same coach and from that conversation we can learn another valuable lesson. He took full responsibility for the incident and did not criticize any of those who had a part in this ugly episode of his life. He had nothing but kind words for those who asked for his resignation and empathized with those who were hurt by his apparent lack of diligence.

As he unfolded the story, it was evident to me that there were others that he could have blamed, or at least included in the blame. However, he chose to take full responsibility. This behavior is extraordinary in 21st century America where the standard in most employment situations is to take credit for the things that are done well and to blame others for the things that go awry.

Although this trend may appear to be a good philosophy, ultimately it is just as destructive as any other lie. Yes, it is a lie. Not taking responsibility for a mistake that is within your realm of obligation, whether actively or passively, is an untruth. It will be seen as petty and immature. Ultimately, the trust that others have in you will be destroyed and your work will become more difficult because others will not want to cooperate with you.

When you take responsibility for problems that have occurred, everyone is freed to work on the solution to that problem. Otherwise, those involved are so busy protecting themselves from blame that the correction takes longer. Likewise, when one person takes responsibility for a success, the others involved grumble about that indiscretion rather than getting on with the next project. Giving credit to others eliminates that problem.

In the interview that I viewed this past week, the coach presented his side of the story sincerely and with humility. Without those two qualities the same words would have appeared artificial and his apologies would not have been credible. At one point his voice broke and I thought I saw a tear in his eye. I certainly felt his pain. Taking responsibility for one's actions sometimes causes pain.

This pain was appropriate for the level of this mistake that had been made and the number of people who were hurt by the mistake. Although the exposure of the errant information will certainly hurt his career, the fact that he took responsibility for his actions will lessen the significance of that penalty. When asked if he wanted to coach again he answered, "I need to coach again." The probability that he will get another coaching opportunity is significantly increased by his acceptance of responsibility. In addition, the transition to a new job will be easier.

The temptation to take credit for successes and blame others for mistakes is great. But the consequences to relationships in the workplace are many. Following the example of this coach is a much better alternative.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Q: I am employed with (name withheld). Our company is affiliated with several charitable organizations. It was told to me upon hire how involved the employees are in these organizations and events to raise money and help out. What was never told to me is that I, too, would be expected to be involved in doing what has been stated to me as "my share" of events and fund raising and volunteering. Recently, a poster was placed on the wall of the main corridor that shows how many volunteer hours co-workers have put in and it lists them by name. It also shows how many dollars some of these co-workers have raised for certain charities. There are a handful of employees, including myself, whose names appear with nothing next to it. I was passing through the hall the other day and overheard some co-workers talking about how a few people have not been putting in their share of time. While I love my job and have been working here for almost 9 months, I take direct offense to the fact that my employer has displayed this poster. I don't mind the poster so much as I do the fact that my name is listed on it. I am a single parent with little time for outside interests. I work to support my family, which is a struggle. I rush home after work to make dinner so we can be together and by the time their activities and homework is complete it is time for bed, so I can get some rest and begin the same process the following day. On the weekends, my time is directed to my children and their needs. We are involved in our church activities and I feel we do much in our lives that I would consider charitable. I spoke with two other employees whose names also appear on this poster with nothing noted just like mine. One of them has stated that his religion keeps him from participating in the weekend functions and during the week he has limited time as he is involved with coaching which he says is "volunteer enough." The other employee I spoke with spends her evenings and weekends as a caregiver for an ailing family member. I really do not want to rock the boat because I love and need my job, but I also believe this poster is causing a few of us some unnecessary harm in having others judge us wrongfully. None of us wants to be the one to step forward and talk to the bosses about this for fear they will take this the wrong way and view us as something other than team players. We thought of sending a letter anonymously, but feel that's cowardly. I have been told that sometimes you will get involved. We would appreciate you informing the employer that some employees feel they are being alienated by having their names appear with the amount of volunteer work they have done. Please leave us anonymous. Thanks from Lake Bluff.

A: Done. Your employer has told me that employees can earn time off for volunteer hours they put in at certain fund raisers and charitable events. This is a program he said that is open to all employees. The idea of the "sign" as he called it, was not his, but the idea of a committee he had selected. I let him know that the idea of earning time off for volunteer work was a great incentive to employees, but that not everyone can afford the same gift of time when it comes to charity. He had not paid much attention to the sign he said, but could clearly understand how bad it could make some employees feel. He let me know he would have the committee remove the sign at once. Instead of the sign, I suggested he relace that with individual sheets that go to the employee listing their own hours and dollars. He agreed.

CLC SPORTS ROUNDUP

Lancers' Maitland growing on, off the court

By JOE PRUSKI
Correspondent

Although the College of Lake County men's basketball team has suffered many disappointments this season, one bright spot has shown through, on and off the court.

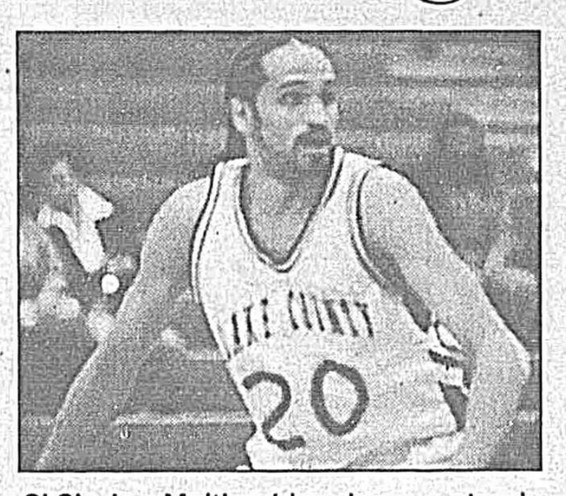

On the court, 6-foot, 3-inch guard Joe Maitland has contributed to the team in nearly every way possible. Over the last four games, Maitland has led the Lancers with his 25.3 points and 14.3 rebounds per contest. As result, Maitland has been the team Player of the Week for the last four weeks. More importantly, he has also taken on the role of team leader.

"He's consistent and he's tough," said head coach Shawn Chism. "More than anything though, he's a good kid."

Maitland has the grades and the ability to play at a Division II university according to Chism. However Maitland, a sophomore this year, is undecided as to what he will do next year, if anything.

Currently, as many as five colleges are looking into offering him a scholarship to play basketball. But for now, the current season is still what's on his mind.

"I knew once the semester came that players would be ineligible and that I would have to step it up," said Maitland. "There are still a lot of short-term goals to accomplish and being the team captain I can't give up out there—I have to set an example for my teammates."

Not only has Maitland set an example to his teammates, but also his sister, Jessica, who he is responsible for raising.

"My sister is my role model," he said. "We had a tough life coming up and we feed off of each other. She is my biggest hero and I am hers."

Maitland's sister is a member of the Zion girl's basketball team where she plays the center position. Zion currently holds the top spot in the North Suburban Prairie Division. And according to Maitland, the two play a lot of one-on-one against each other.

"I always win," said Maitland in regards to the one on one battles.

As if raising a teenage girl isn't hard enough, Maitland is a full time student and full time basketball player. And on top of that Maitland works 40-hour weeks at Abbot Laboratories where he is an administrative assistant.

"I've always been a major task guy. If I'm not keeping myself busy I'm bored," said the former Zion standout.

Being busy has made it tough for Maitland to get to his sister's games, but she has made it to a few of his.

"My schedule makes it tough to see her play, but she's come out and seen me a few times," said Maitland. "She's my biggest fan and my biggest critic, but mainly it's just nice to know that you have someone in your corner."

Maitland is hoping that the both of them can play basketball at the same someday and that they will always stay close by.

"I'm hoping we can go the same school next year," he said. "Usually the girls play before the guys and I will get to see my little sister play."

Regardless where Maitland plays, there is no doubting that he will make an impact somehow. In fact, when basketball season ends for CLC, Maitland is considering coaching younger kids in a youth basketball program.

"I'm thinking about picking up a team," said Maitland. "I just don't know if I'll have the time."

Maitland again led the Lancers with 27 points and 17 rebounds in a loss to McHenry last week. The team has dwindled in manpower due to injury and ineligibility with the semester turnover last month. The CLC roster dropped to six men last week.

Good news, though. The Lancers picked up 6'3 guard/ forward Steve Owens, who was recovering from a leg injury at the start of the season.

Luckily for head coach Shawn Chism, it's beginning to look as if this year will be the only year with problems as major as not having enough players. Chism has already received commitments from three high school seniors who currently attend Farragut Academy, the Chicago school that Kevin Garnett attended before entering the NBA. To date, Chism has received four commitments from public league players to play at CLC next winter.

The Lancers host Moraine Valley Jan. 24 at 7 p.m. The Lady Lancers game will tip-off at 5:15 p.m.

Women's basketball Athlete of the Week

Freshman forward Becky Holem was named Athlete of the Week after pouring in 23 points and grabbing 21 boards in two losses to nationally ranked Harper College and McHenry. The Lady Lancers slipped to 2-1 in Skyway Conference action and 7-12 overall.

MCW to appear at CLC Jan. 26

Midwest Championship wrestling, the No. 1 independent pro wrestling organization in the Midwest, will be making a return visit to The College of Lake County Sat., Jan. 26. LOCAL SPORTS DIGEST

Five members of the 1952 Hebron Green Giants state championship basketball team will be on hand Jan. 26 from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. at Knuth's Sport and Office Outfitters on the Woodstock Town Square to sign copies of the book, "Once There Were Giants."

Fifty years ago, Woodstock Town Square was the site of a wild celebration as the Hebron caravan made its way from Champaign to Hebron. Phoiographs of that celebration are included among the 100-plus illustrations in the book, co-authored by Scott Johnson and Julie Kistler, who will also be on hand for the book signing.

In March, all eight surviving players from the '52 championship team will be honored at both the high school boys Class A and AA state finals at Carver Arena in Peoria.

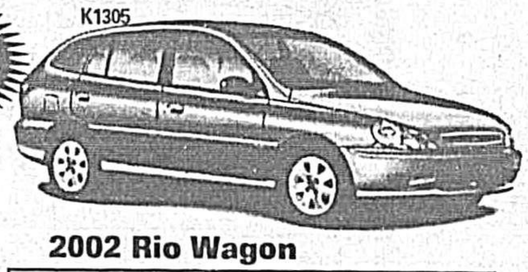

Celebrating its second year of practice, the T'ai Chi Chih Joy Through Movement will be meeting Jan. 26 from 1-3 p.m. at the State Bank of the Lakes in Grayslake. For information, call Donna McElhose at 847-223-6065.
